TWEED'S CONCEALMENT.

The Sheriff Declares that he Has Not Had the Slightest Arrest Dependent Upon his Bondsmen Parley.

TWEED's mysterious disappearance continued to be a subject of town gossip yesterday, though the excitement which attended the circulation of the report of the day before died away from the fact that a conviction filled the minds of the public that TWEED was still in the City and not a fugitive, at least, from the Sheriff. The test of his denial to callers at the Department of Public Works, at his office in Duane-street, the Metropolitan Hotel, his Fifth-avenue mansion, and of all of his accustomed haunts; and the difficulty of finding any one who could say positively that they had seen him, was used as strong argument by many that the arch conspirator had indeed flown. At the hour for the justification of TWEED's bondsmen in the Supreme Court—of which an account is given elsewhere—there was some little excitement evinced by politicians, reporters and the usual hangers-on around the County Court-house. News of his whereabouts and the probabilities of his arrest were eagerly sought for, and the examination of the bondsmen was a subject of much interest. After it was concluded everybody, except the inquisitive members of the Press, appeared to be satisfied that TWEED was within call or the Sheriff. Mr. FOSTER DONAY, a friend of TWEED's, was heard to say that he had passed the previous evening with TWEED. He spoke of the story of the flight as an absurdity. Several individuals conversed with in the City Hall also told a reporter that they had seen TWEED at Mrs. NORTON's ball on Thursday night. One of these individuals is a clerk in Justice FOWLER's Court. TWEED's office in Duane-street was visited by a TIMES reporter between 2 P. M. and 3 P. M. yesterday, and at the time a well-known friend of TWEED's was seen to leave it. No sooner had the reporter's footfall sounded in the hall upon which TWEED's office doors open than a man's head appeared at one of them cautiously peering out. "Is Mr. ——," mentioning the name of the individual who had just departed, "inside?" asked the reporter, mysteriously. "He left just this minute; run, and you will catch him," was the reply. "All right," said the reporter, and bringing his voice down to a whisper, "is Mr. TWEED inside? The old gentleman, I mean." "Not now," said the man, at the same time and whispering fully lower, "he left about half an hour ago. All right, Bill; you needn't run." In the reporter's stock of inquiry, and he softly closed the door as the reporter left. Quite a number of individuals were met after this stage of the inquiry, and all asserted positively that they had seen TWEED the night before. Wm. M. TWEED, Jr., and RICHARD M. TWEED were also found to deny that their father had run away. On the contrary, they asserted that he was ready to appear at what they considered the proper time. In the Sheriff's office Deputy Sheriff KEESE flatly contradicted the statement that he had been in charge of TWEED the day before, and Deputy Sheriff ROLAND said that he had quite erred in imagination, after reading a circumstantial account of the visit of TWEED by him which had the charm of entire freshness to him. Sheriff BRENNAN, who was visited by the TIMES reporter, said, "You may bet your existence that TWEED is in town. I sent a messenger to him today," added the Sheriff, and he will be returned in an hour, and I know that he was sent." When asked if TWEED would be arrested, the Sheriff answered that that depended upon Mr. FARRLY. "He, you know," said the Sheriff, "is responsible, and hasn't to be relieved from his responsibility. When he surrenders Mr. TWEED to me, he will be relieved." Further inquiry established the fact that TWEED was unmistakably hiding, but was not a fugitive from the Sheriff, though he might be from FARRLY.

It is said that two other persons have undoubtedly influenced TWEED in endeavoring to keep concealed. Each one who signs the obligation for bail, and justifies, as is required, in double the amount of the bail, is held by the Sheriff not only for the actual sum demanded by his written obligation, but also for the whole amount of the bail. Bondsmen taking this responsibility must naturally feel some timidity, those who would risk half their fortune, fear to stake the whole upon the altar of friendship. TWEED being afraid that others of his friends will "back out," Mr. FARRLEY has deemed prudence to keep out of the sight until a bondsman can be found to take the place of each one who shows an intention to withdraw from the bond and thus prevent his lodgment in Ludlow-street Jail. He also, in the opinion of many, hopes to take his cast as a traitor, and thus save himself under the statute, as he claims, from civil process, and also from criminal arrest, by proceedings which, it is said upon reliable authority, are to be taken by his counsel to quash the indictment made by the Supreme Grand Jury against him. All his political influence, with such aid as his friends can now bring to him, will be used in forcing the Legislature to restore TWEED, if not to his old political power, to at least render him invulnerable to any proceedings brought against him. This appears to be the plan marked out by TWEED and his friends, from the talk in Tammany circles.

The Sheriff rests easy in mind, feeling confident both of the responsibility of TWEED's bondsmen, and his ability to lay hands upon him should he deem it necessary. His present place of residence is said by some to be the house of his son, Richard M. TWEED, in Twenty-seventh-street; others claim that he is to be found nightly in the Metropolitan Hotel, where he occupies Room No. 112. Rooms Nos. 114 and 116 open into No. 112. In these apartments Judge DOWLING, Superintendent KELSO, A. D. BARNES and TWEED meet; it is said, in friendly converse, and were there together on Thursday night, though TWEED's presence in the house was denied to everybody not in the Ring. As was asked by several, yesterday, why could he not hide in his house in Fifth-avenue? Who is to know, if he is uniformly denied by the servants, unless the house is searched? Nobody has heard of its being searched yesterday.

TWEED's position in the Parlor House for him is like that of some scapegrace of olden times, who, heavily in debt, were constantly checking the pursuit of bailiffs until a favorable change took place in their fortunes.

The Latest Rumors.

TWEED's whereabouts were still a mystery to the many up to midnight. It was stated at the Metropolitan Hotel that he had been there in the afternoon, but his presence in the house was denied at night. No tidings of Mr. JARVIS could be got at the New-York Hotel; the clerk stated that that officer had not been seen there since early in the morning. At the mansion of the JARVIS family, uptown, it was stated that Mr. JARVIS was sick at his hotel. A second inquiry was made of the clerk of the hotel, who reiterated his first statement. There was a rumor that Mr. JARVIS was near TWEED, and that if he was not arrested by him, that he would be when it was thought necessary. This rumor gained some probability from the fact of the Sheriff's statement that he knew TWEED to be in the City.

There was a consultation of Tammany politicians last night at NORTON's head-quarters, in Mercer-street. SHANDLEY, TIM CAMPBELL and others came in during the evening, and soon afterward, about 10 P. M., a carriage was hitched up and NORTON drove away. The business he went on was thought by one of the men present to be of an important character, from the haste with which the party drove away.

"BOSS" TWEED'S BONDSMEN.

Examination of Fairchild and Cornell—The "Ring" Quarry.

The examination of "Boss" TWEED's bondsmen, on notification to justify, was continued in Supreme Court, Special Term room, yesterday morning at 11 o'clock. At the hour named for the examination the only recognized bondsmen of the defendant present were Mr. KELLY and Mr. FAIRCHILD and CHARLES DEVLIN, the proposed substitute for TERENCE FARLEY. Messrs. FIELD, BARNEY and BURRILL appeared on behalf of the defendant TWEED, and JOSEPH H. CHOATE conducted the examination on behalf of the people. There were present in Court during the proceedings a large number of interested spectators. After some unimportant corrections made by Mr. KELLY, Mr. CHOATE commenced the examination of Mr. FAIRCHILD, who testified that he purchased house No. 107 East Tenth-street from a Mr. BOWDEN, and paid for it $18,950, subject to no mortgage, and, as he believes, with taxes and assessments all paid; his property on Thirty-eighth-street cost about a year ago $7,000, and he estimates it now at $10,000; on this last named property there is an incumbrance of $3,000; the property on West Fifty-fifth, Fifty-sixth and Fifty-seventh streets and Ninth-avenue, he bought about a year ago, and estimates his interest in them at about $40,000, exclusive of incumbrances; he has a half interest in three houses and lots on Fifty-sixth-street, (his nephew, Mr. LEITER, owning the other half,) which he values at $18,000, clear; fourteen lots on One Hundred and Fifty-first-street, near Eighth-avenue, purchased two years ago, he values at $13,000, with a mortgage for $2,800; his lot on East Twelfth-street and Avenue D, he values at $200,000, with a mortgage of $182,500 he has had the title to the property purchased by him examined by a competent lawyer; has twelve lots on Sixty-eighth-street, near Twelfth-avenue which he values at $15,000, subject to a mortgage of $4,800; has two lots on Seventy-fourth-street valued at $10,000, with an incumbrance of $6,800; has four lots in the neighborhood of Seventy-sixth-street and Ninth-avenue, his interest in which he values at $23,000; has four lots on One Hundred and Ninth-street, and two on One Hundred and Tenth-street, valued at $15,800, exclusive of incumbrances; owns sixty feet front on One Hundred and Fifty-first-street, west of St. Nicholas-avenue, his interest in which is $7,500; has one lot on Sixty-third-street, near Tenth-avenue, valued at $6,000, mortgage $3,000; four lots on One Hundred and Eleventh-street, near Sixth-avenue, value $19,000, mortgage $12,000; nine lots in Williamsburg, on Newton-avenue, near Hague, value $6,000, no incumbrance; five lots corner Grand-avenue and Charles-place, Westchester County, value $4,500, mortgage $1,500; 1,200 acres of land on Long Island, near North Islip Station, bought eighteen months ago, value $18,000, mortgage $12,000, net interest $9,000; five lots on Academy-street, New-York, value $3,000, net interest $1,400; twenty lots on the Kinder's Bridge road, corner of Hawthorn-street, purchased last season, value $25,000, mortgage $15,000, net interest $10,000; one lot on Seventy-fifth-street, east of Madison-avenue, value $9,000, mortgage $3,500, net interest $5,500; one-half interest in sixty lots in connection with Mr. FOSTER, on Hawthorn-street, value $6,500; three-fourth interest in 164 lots, running from Two Hundred and Sixth-street to Two Hundred and Eleventh-street, interest $12,000; one-third interest in six acres of ground in the same neighborhood, valued at $2,500; half interest in fifteen lots on One Hundred and Forty-first-street, purchased two months ago, valued, exclusive of mortgage, at $8,000; half interest in house No. 41 West Thirty-eighth-street, valued at, exclusive of mortage, $7,000; half interest in house No. 321 West Fifty-seventh-street, exclusive of mortgage, $6,000; one-third interest in a house in Beach-street, value of interest, $5,000; owns an interest in lease of No. 426 West Twenty-fifth-street, valued at $5,000. Except some wild lands not worth mentioning, the foregoing is all he owns, all of which is, so far as he knows, of good title in him, and valued in all at $300,000; TWEED has no interest in any of the property, and he has given no agreements impairing title; he had never purchased property for TWEED and took title in his own name, except on some rare occasion, when he had an order to purchase and TWEED was out of town, and then the property was turned over the moment he arrived; has never taken title of property under an agreement to convey to TWEED when asked; has never stated that he had half a million of TWEED's property for which the latter had not a scratch of the pen, may have said that he had received notes and checks of TWEED's under those circumstances, but when paid for the property it was turned over to TWEED. With the property he has named in this examination, TWEED had nothing whatever to do; none of the property here named is subject in any respect to any agreement with TWEED, TWEED's friends, or any party other than he has named. He holds bonds and mortgages on property in this City to the amount of $98,600; has bills receivable over and above bills payable to the amount of $80,000; his outstanding debts do not exceed $20,000. Previous to this he has signed no bond for either TWEED or CONNOLLY; has no unsatisfied judgment against him; is surety on the present Surrogate's bond for $8,000; is also surety in $5,000 for a Secretary of a bank, but knows of no other case in which he is surety; could not now tell the amount of taxes on all his property.

In reply to questions put by Mr. BURRILL, the witness stated that he is a judge of real estate, and that the gross valuation which he placed on his real estate is a good deal below what he is certain it would sell for. This closed the examination of Mr. FAIRCHILD, whose affidavit on the bond fixes his property at $200,000.

The next bondsman examined was CHARLES E. CORNELL, who, in reply to Mr. BURRILL, said he was forty-three years of age, and resided at No. 226 East Twelfth-street; is the owner of fifty-four lots on Avenue A, extending from Sixty-third to Sixty-fourth-street; the lots have houses on them, rent for $6,000, and are worth $112,000, exclusive of mortgage; owns another house renting for $1,500, valued at $7,500, exclusive of mortgage; owns five lots in One Hundred and Twenty-sixth-street, near St. Nicholas-avenue, valued at $15,000; owns six lots in One Hundred and Thirty-fourth-street, near Fourth-avenue, worth, exclusive of incumbrance, $15,000; owns personal property consisting of stock to the amount of $40,000, worth fifty cents on the dollar; owns insurance stock worth $35,000; owns carriages and horses valued at $2,000; his liabilities, aside from mortgages, will not exceed $3,000 or $4,000; the whole of his real estate amounts to $350,500, and his personal estate to $40,000—all of which he regards of the value stated.

By Mr. CHOATE—Was appointed Water Register by TWEED in 1867; has been Councilman, Alderman and Street Commissioner; has no contracts with the City Government, except an interest in the Oswego Falls Brown-stone Quarry Company, from which stone is being taken for the Jefferson Market Court-house; his name is on no bond given to the City or County of New-York; has not within the past six years received any money from the City except as salary for offices held by him; has had no business connection with TWEED for six years past; has not been connected with TWEED in the purchase of real estate within five years past; has received no property or promise of property to indemnify him against liability on this bond; the Oswego Falls Company is incorporated with a capital of $250,000, more than ten per cent. of which has been paid in; the Company has an office here and another in the town of Fulton, N. Y.; has supplied stone to other parties than the City; stone to the City is being supplied under a verbal contract, but under advice of counsel he declines to disclose the parties with whom the contract was made; the Company was organized in 1870; there have been private, but no public sales of its stock within the past year; owns none of the stock himself; TWEED is not a stockholder. (Here Mr. BURRILL objected to the witness answering as to who are the stockholders of the Company, who its officers, what the stock originally cost, or whether the Company had other contracts than those to furnish stone for Jefferson Market; and the answers were refused; has three horses, costing together, about $600; has three carriages, all of which are kept for his private use; has no other business except that of Water Register, and the quarry business; the insurance stock he owns is of the Tradesmans' Company; the amount is $1,000, and may stand in his wife's name; owns $4,000 of stock in the Lorillard Insurance Company; the house, No. 26 East Twelfth-street, is owned by his wife; the property in Sixty-second-street, consisting of twenty-four lots, is partially improved; it was bought in 1862 or 1863, at a cost of $23,000; refused last year an offer of $110,000 for this property; this offer was not made by TWEED; house and lot No. 68 Third-street, he purchased in 1862 or 1863; he knows of no sales in that neighborhood during the past year; the property in One hundred and Twenty-sixth-street he bought in 1862 or 1863; the six lots in One hundred and Thirty-fourth-street, between Fourth and Madison avenues, he purchased in 1867 or 1868, and it is not subject to any mortgage; property has recently sold in the latter neighborhood for $8,000 a lot; no person has any interest in the property he has named except himself, and he believes the title to be perfect; the twenty-four lots already mentioned were originally bought between TWEED, FOX and FERNOW, and the witness) subsequently took title from them, all of which occurred early in 1863.

This closed the examination of Mr. CORNELL, except as to the questions relating to the officers, stock and internal organization of the Quarry Company, which the witness had refused to answer, under advice of his counsel, to these questions the parties went before the Court.

Mr. CHOATE asked that the question of the admissibility of the questions be decided upon, but Mr. BURRILL urged that the Court could not intelligently decide as to the admissibility of these questions without being acquainted with the course of examination which had preceded it. Under the circumstances he suggested that an adjournment be taken until this morning, so as to allow the stenographer time to write out his notes to be submitted to the Court.

Mr. CHOATE then urged that the examination of the other bondsmen proceed in the meantime, and suggested that in his judgment they had no other bondsmen present.

Mr. BURRILL said he was anxious to know where Mr. CHOATE got his information. Objections had been taken to questions put to the bondsmen now under examination, and when those were disposed of, and his examination completed, the other bondsmen would be forthcoming.

Judge CARDOZO then directed that a recess be taken until this morning at 11 o'clock.

Why Tweed's Bondsmen are Frightened.

One of the chief causes of the defection among some of TWEED's bondsmen, and their unwillingness to justify, it is said, is their aversion toward a rigid cross-examination by the Reform lawyers in regard to the property which they possess. Well-informed persons say that they dread divulging the manner in which they hold some of their real estate, and the way in which they purchased it. A considerable portion of their real estate was bought from the City by auction, on payment of ten per cent. of the price, which was generally below the market value. The property was allowed to remain in the name of the City, in some instances, for a period of several years, and was kept in this way by the owners for the purpose of avoiding taxes and interest on the property. They took it with a view of keeping it until it advanced in value sufficiently to make it an object to sell it. If they desired to dispose of it, they could readily get a deed from the City after paying the full amount of their bid. It is to prevent the legal exposure of such transactions that some of TWEED's friends, it is believed, are now shrinking from becoming his sureties.

Connolly Finds Bail.

CONNOLLY's bail bonds have been signed by bondsmen for the full amount of $500,000. Sheriff BRENNAN said yesterday that the sureties were satisfactory to him, and that the bondsmen would qualify today. Mr. CONNOLLY's son and nephews are on the bonds. Mr. HOFFMAN has signed for $100,000, and Mr. JOEL FITHIAN is a new bondsman.

Taxes Unaccounted For—A Fit Subject for Inquiry.

In April last a formal notice of unpaid taxes was sent from the Tax Commissioners' Counsel's office to Messrs. IDEN & Co., doing business corner of Hester and Baxter-streets; but as the amount charged appeared to be greatly exorbitant, these gentlemen determined to get a reduction made, and placed the matter in the hands of Messrs. YARD & FURLONG, of Broadway. It is said that a considerable reduction was made, and the claim was finally settled by a false affidavit made by some person who personated Mr. IDEN. A copy of this affidavit was obtained and shown to Mr. IDEN, who pronounces it untrue, and says the signature thereto is a forgery, and that he knows nothing about it. It was further ascertained by a reference to the ledger in the office of the Attorney for Collection of Taxes that nothing was credited on Mr. IDEN's taxes, but by a marginal note the amount is marked "dismissed." Mr. IDEN says he paid the money. Where did it go? Where, as it is said, many other cases of a like nature.

The New Legislature.

There was a large representation last night, at the Fifth-avenue Hotel, of members, both from the City and State, of the new Legislature. The gathering seems to have been caused by the impression that the clauses of the new charter would be discussed. No formal meeting was, however, held. The opinions generally expressed were in favor of the adoption of the new charter. The principal topic of conversation was, however, the meeting of the Legislature on Tuesday next.

The Responsibility of Bail.

From the Evening Post.

It is understood that the reason why several of Mr. TWEED's bondsmen have determined to withdraw from his bond is that they did not at all comprehend at first the extent of the responsibilities which they were assuming. Each of them supposed that he was binding himself only in the amount in which he "justified," that is in the amount which he testified on oath that he was able to pay. In point of fact, each signer of a bail bond is responsible for the whole amount. All the signers are together responsible for it, and in a suit upon the bond the District-Attorney may select any one or more of the bondsmen at his will, and collect the whole amount from them, leaving them to obtain compensation from the rest. This was not understood at first by Mr. FARLEY and some others on the bond of TWEED, and as soon as they were informed of it by their counsel they withdrew. It now seems very doubtful whether the great head thief will find anybody to stand in his stead under so heavy a risk as this.

Receiver Tweed.

Persons who have the misfortune to be creditors of the Commonwealth Fire Insurance Company of this City will need to be both shrewd and active if they expect to get anything out of that exploded corporation. It will be recollected that the Commonwealth failed; or rather, was driven into liquidation by Superintendent MILLER last Winter, and finally found itself in the hands of "Gen." WILLIAM M. TWEED, Jr., who was made receiver. When the Company thus came under Ring control its assets were $250,088 21, and its liabilities $185,478 40. We take Mr. MILLER's word for the correctness of these figures. Soon after Receiver TWEED got hold of the reins he was smart enough to reinsure all the Commonwealth's risks in the Occidental Company of California, paying some $90,000 for the operation, and not forgetting, we presume, a "rake" for himself by way of commission. This reinsurance matter off his hands, the "General" played the part of exhausted receiver until October, when the Chicago fire brought the Occidental Company to grief, and, with this sad event, came back upon the Commonwealth all those Chicago policies which had been reinsured, barring the reinsurance; so that the latter Company was $90,000 worse off than if it had not sheltered itself under the Occidental's wing. The present prospect is that of the $85,000 surplus cash assets on hand when this young TWEED took hold, nothing is left, and stockholders are not likely to get a cent of the thirty-three per cent. which, even by Mr. MILLER's showing, they were entitled to when the Company was closed up. How would it answer for "Gen." TWEED to favor the parties concerned with a statement of affairs as they now stand? A large circle of mourners would gratefully accept a sign of life in this direction.

THE GRAND JURY.

A Further Extension of Time Granted—Why More Indictments are Not Brought In.

The Grand Jury yesterday officially explained the reason of its delay in not preferring indictments against the corrupt Ring rulers. It is well known to the readers of the TIMES that the Grand Jury of the Court of Oyer and Terminer has under deliberation several important cases, and a doubt has been expressed as to the validity of the action of the Grand Jury of the Court of General Sessions during the existence of the first-named jury. This supposition as to the legality of their proceedings has delayed the presentation of indictments, and it was determined, yesterday, to make application for a further extension of time beyond the existence of the Grand Jury of the Court of Oyer and Terminer. The application was granted, and the term was further extended to the 27th of January. In the meantime, the District-Attorney is not apprehensive that any difficulty will be experienced in proving the legality of the indictments already presented by the Grand Jury.

The Grand Jury reassembled yesterday, but, without examining any witnesses, adjourned to this morning.

At 11½ Judge BEDFORD opened the Court of General Sessions. The Grand Jury entered Court shortly afterward, and the foreman, LUCIUS S. COMSTOCK, said:

Your Honor, we have no indictments this morning to present, for the reason which will appear from another subject referred to in this paper. The paper is to ask for an extension of time; if your Honor would read the paper, and allow us to remain in Court to await your answer.

Judge BEDFORD—Certainly. He then took the paper, and having read it carefully, handed it to District-Attorney GARVIN. He also perused it, and said:

I entirely concur in the request of the Grand Jury as to the extension. But I wish to observe that there are some things in that paper which would not be will to make public; it would perhaps be well for no portion of that paper to go further.

After a consultation with the District-Attorney, Judge BEDFORD said:

Mr. FOREMAN AND GENTLEMEN: I have carefully read over your request and resolutions. I sit here as Judge of this Court, simply for the furtherance of the ends of justice. It is clearly my duty to afford you every facility you may ask for in order to aid you in perfecting the business before you. I, therefore, cheerfully grant your request, and shall direct the Clerk of the Court to enter an order accordingly.

The DISTRICT-ATTORNEY (after consulting with the Grand Jury)—The suggestion I made seems disagreeable to the Grand Jury. For the public interests and public policy, it appeared to me it would be well not to publish the paper. If they differ with me, I shall not offer any objection or try to control them in this matter; but if they talked over it, they might find it better not to publish one or two ideas in it. However, it is a matter of propriety and discretion.

Dr. COMSTOCK—But the object of making the communication at all was that it should be published; and that our fellow-citizens should know why we are so long delayed in the Grand Jury room. We feel it is due to us and to them. They have a right to inquire, and we have a right to answer, why we are kept together so long without any action. I do not think there is any concealment whatever on the point Judge GARVIN refers to. It is well known throughout this Grand Jury cannot act while the other is in session.

The Grand Jury then retired to deliberate, to the intense disgust of the District-Attorney. After the lapse of several minutes they determined on the publication of the document, which was immediately placed in the hands of the reporters. It is as follows:

To Hon. Cunning S. Bedford, City Judge.

At much personal inconvenience and neglect of private affairs, this grand inquest has pursued its investigations in the course of Michaelmas Term with all the energy and perseverance it possessed, from the 13th day of November to the present date, and are now compelled to ask your Honor again to extend its time. The reason why this is sought is, that in the following order, the object of the Jury being to avoid every possible question as to the validity of its final action which might arise were it taken during the existence of the other Grand Jury.

LUCIUS S. COMSTOCK, Foreman.

ORDER OF THE JURY.

The Grand Jury hereby instruct its foreman to ask the Court to extend its time to the 5th day of next January. The Grand Jury have resolved not to pass upon the canvass of Municipal frauds during the session of the present Oyer and Terminer Grand Jury, being fully convinced that any statements found on them during the existence of the said Oyer and Terminer would either be invalid, or at least give rise to very serious questions which would delay and possibly defeat the ends of justice.

JOHN H. DRAPER, Secretary.

The Court then adjourned to Saturday morning.

A careful canvass of the delegates so far known to be chosen shows that the election has resulted in an overwhelming majority for the Administration party, and in all probability Hon. S. B. DUTCHER will be elected Chairman of the General Committee.

Christmas Festival at the Institute for Aged and Infirm Colored People.

A grand Christmas festival was given last evening at the Institute for Aged and Infirm Colored People, corner of First-avenue and Sixty-fifth-street. The rooms of the Institution were tastefully decorated with evergreens for the occasion. At 8 o'clock Rev. Mr. HORTON opened the festival by prayer, after which the inmates, to the number of 340, sang some hymns in joyous, hearty manner, very different from the usual method of hymn-singing. Then came some beautiful stereoptic views, after which more singing and then the distribution of gifts. The gifts, which consisted of candies, being distributed the inmates sat down to an elegant repast furnished by the managers of the institution. It was 10 o'clock before the festival was brought to a conclusion. Addresses were made by Rev. GEO. MINGINS, of the Howard Mission, and Mr. HENRY COWAN. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. VAN BURKIRK and family, Mr. and Mrs. JOSEPH LOW and family, Mrs. JAS. G. BILKEMAP and Miss BLAKEMAN. Among the merriest of the singers was an old colored woman, named MARIA KEARNEY, who some four months ago reached her one hundred and second year. She boasts of being born and raised on JEF. COMPTON's plantation, down South. MARIA's board is paid regularly by Mr. COMPTON's descendants, who have assured Mrs. E. HAGER, the Matron of the Home, that old Aunt KEARNEY, as she is called, is really over one hundred and two years of age.

RAPID TRANSIT.

Meeting at Harlem—The Twelfth Ward Citizens Aroused—An Underground Railroad Advocated.

A meeting of the citizens of Harlem was held last evening at Lincoln Hall, One Hundred and Twenty-fifth-street, between Third and Fourth avenues. There were about 200 persons present.

Mr. ALVIN BARRETT occupied the chair, and in a brief address stated the object of the meeting, and introduced the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, The time has arrived when it is necessary for the property-owners of the Twelfth Ward to take some action in regard to the removal of steam on the surface of Fourth-avenue, and for the construction of means of quick transit from the City Hall to Harlem and Yorkville; and

Whereas, Similar organizations of the Eleventh Ward having the same object in view, have held large meetings and appointed conferees committee to take action in regard to the matter, therefore

Resolved, That we, the taxpayers and property-owners of the Twelfth Ward, do hereby declare that we are ready and anxious to confer with other associations of the East side for the purpose of procuring the speedy relief desired and expected.

Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed by the Chair to confer with the committees from other organizations, and to adopt some united plan for the purpose above set forth.

The following gentlemen were named as the Committee of Conference: Henry Waterman, George W. Palmer, Addison Smith, James M. Boyd, Wm. H. Roberts.

Mr. M. M. VAN, of the Eleventh Ward, referred to the great political revolution that had recently taken place in the City, and stating about that revolution he told the people had made their power felt. Heretofore it was impossible for them to effect anything, because Legislatures and City Councils were bought up by the corrupt men who had ruled this City. Now things were changed, and the people had a chance to procure legislation in their own interests. He referred to the schemes that had been proposed for rapid transit—the elevated railroad, the viaduct scheme, &c. The first, he said, was an apparent failure, while the viaduct plan was so costly that its defeat was inevitable. He considered an underground road the only feasible and practicable plan. He said that if the Harlem Railroad did not deem it to their interests to construct such a road, he would favor the City itself to construct it at the public expense. He said that competent engineers had estimated the cost at about $6,000,000. He referred to the fact that the Harlem Road has never paid the City one cent for its privileges, while it had received from the New-York Central over $300,000 for the privilege of using its track. It was now running trains at the rate of twenty miles an hour through the heart of the City to the great danger of the lives of citizens. The objection raised against the underground road—that it would interfere with gas-pipes and sewers—was, he said, disposed of by competent engineers, who had given the opinion that these difficulties could be very easily surmounted.

Hon. W. A. WHITEHOUSE, Assemblyman elect from the Twenty-first District, and Col. BENJAMIN A. WILLIS addressed the meeting in the same strain, and took a similar view in favor of the under-ground plan.

Fire in East Tenth-Street—A Saw-Mill Destroyed—Loss Upward of $30,000.

About 8½ o'clock last night Officer FINEGAN, of the Eleventh Precinct, discovered smoke issuing from the building occupied as a saw-mill, at Nos. 467, 469, 471 and 473 East Tenth-street, by ROSMAN & HERMAN. He immediately gave the alarm, and in a short time the firemen were on the ground and at work, but owing to the inflammable nature of the material stored in the building, the flames spread with such frightful rapidity that in a short time the interior of the building was enveloped in a volume of fire. The building is owned by Graham Gunsaus, and was damaged about $600. ROSMAN & HERBURN's loss in machinery is about $4,000. The buildings, Nos. 469 and 471, also occupied by ROSMAN & HERBURN as a stable, were slightly damaged. Insured for $2,000 in the Equitable and Mechanics' and Traders' Insurance Companies. The stock, which was composed chiefly of veneerings, and owned by outside parties, was damaged about $10,000. The insurance could not be ascertained.

Fire in Maiden-Lane Last Night.

A fire occurred at No. 60 Maiden-lane last night, about 12 o'clock. The first and second floors were occupied by Wm. Bauer, dealer in furs, and the third, fourth and fifth floors by JOHN E. STRATTON & CO., dealers in musical instruments. The damage was found subject to one of the rooms, and entered by the Police. The loss, which was considerable, has not been ascertained.

The Internationalists—An Explanation of the Objects They Have in View by One of Them.

Prof. J. W. HUME, a prominent Internationalist of this City, lectured last evening before a large number of painters on the objects and aims of the organization to which he belongs. He asserted, firstly, that the Internationals were fighting to abolish all class privileges; secondly, to compel social and political equality for both sexes, and equal payment for equal labor to men and women; thirdly, the nationalization of land, the freedom of land and its productions, and also freedom of the means of transit; fourthly, the reduction of the hours of labor, so as to give the laborer more time for improvement and recreation, intemperance and ignorance being, in Mr. HUME's opinion, the result of so much manual labor as ten hours a day; fifthly, education to be undertaken by the State, to be obligatory, gratuitous and secular; sixthly, religion to be ignored, as being a speculative subject, concerning individuals only—no religious creed to be recognized; seventh, by the substitution of a direct system of taxation based upon property, instead of the present indirect system, such taxation to be progressive; eighthly, the abolition of standing armies, as being a provocative to war; ninthly, the adoption of the principle of associated production, instead of that of capitalist production. Mr. HUME spoke strongly in defense of the foregoing propositions, and took occasion to justify most of the acts of the Commune, hesitating only when he touched on the murder of Archbishop DARBOY and the priests. In conclusion he said: "The war is coming, and we should all know what we have to do when it does come. The present systems all need alteration, and the time has come when they must be altered."

Mr. HUME's remarks were heartily applauded, and a vote of thanks was conferred to him, after which several of the working men engaged in a debate, all but one being in favor of affiliation with the Internationalists. Two or three were loud in their praises of the Communists.

THE WEATHER.

Synopsis and Prohabilities.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 28—7 P. M.—The highest barometer has moved from Minnesota to the Middle Atlantic coast. Clear weather prevailed east of the Mississippi Wednesday and until Thursday afternoon. Increasing cloudiness with falling barometer is now generally reported with threatening weather and rising temperature in the Mississippi Valley. The temperature has risen at the Rocky Mountain Stations and generally warmer with rain is reported from San Francisco. Northeasterly winds have backed to south-west with rising barometer and falling temperature in New-England and New-York. Fresh winds from the south and south-east prevail from

THE PRESS AND THE PRESIDENT.

Real and Pretended Reformers—The One-Term and Other Doctrines of the Season.

WHERE THE SHOE PINCHES.

The public is by this time well aware of the personal hostility of Senators TRUMBULL, SUMNER and SCHURZ to President GRANT, and that the ground of their hostility lies in honorable one. The fact of Mr. TRUMBULL's disappointed aspirations for the Presidency in times past—of his being passed by when LINCOLN was nominated and renominated, and embittered when GRANT was selected in 1868—is notorious enough to politicians; and it is also well known that he is now extremely anxious to become GRANT's successor, but sees "a lion in his path" in the person of GRANT himself, and to get him out of the way—to destroy the confidence of the Republican Party and of the country in his integrity and fitness, and thus improve his own chances in the Republican National Convention of the coming Presidential year—is, no doubt, the secret of his present factious efforts against the Administration. Mr. TRUMBULL is possessed of some elements of statesmanship, but this disease, or monomania—this unfortunate affection of hoping the Presidency on the brain, which has rendered so many otherwise great and useful public men of our day and generation petty and contemptible—so completely overmasters and destroys his power of usefulness that he is unconsciously trifling with destiny, and frittering away the advantages of a precious opportunity of enrolling his name among the really great and distinguished statesmen of the age.

AN ACT OF POLITICAL INJUSTICE.

Boston Evening Traveller.

We have been taught that great service shall receive its reward by the past history of our country; that wisdom and honesty are to be sustained; that the people are ready to stand by a faithful public servant. This is one encouraging lesson taught by our Republic—a lesson we should not forget when it is proposed to go out of the way to withdraw from the foremost man in our history of war and peace for the last ten years that recognition which our ancestors extended to the great men of their time, handing down our day extended to us with so much honor and advantage to ourselves. Looking back we can see that it would have been a discouraging calamity had Mr. LINCOLN failed of a renomination—discouraging to the people who believe in a wise leader, and discouraging to those who labor faithfully and perfectly for the public good. If Gen. GRANT, with his civil and military record, cannot be blotted out, is to be deserved by us of that measure of confidence and that opportunity which have been accorded to those of his predecessors who labored in critical times, and solved the hard problems before them, it will be an act of wrong and injustice, injurious to the party which he represents, and by no means serviceable to the country whose future prosperity and honor depend upon the success of the policy he is endeavoring to carry out, as well as upon its fidelity to tried and trusty leaders.

THE ANIMUS OF THE OPPOSITION.

Buffalo Commercial.

The most prominent champions, then, of the civil service reform movement are sore-headed because they could not fill that service with men of their own selection. They never will a time that GRANT will be a satisfactory reformer; for, with them, satisfactory reform means the appointment of the men recommended by themselves.

DISAPPOINTED.

Titusville Morning Herald.

We may doubt whether Senators SCHURZ and TRUMBULL do not really feel chagrined that the President has laid the ax at the root of so many official abuses, and met the demands of the country with so much promptitude and decision. For what the enemies of the Administration wank is abuse; something to harp on and to "fire" the public mind.

ROGUE REFORMERS.

Pittsburg Dispatch.

We now believe that SUMNER, SCHURZ, TRUMBULL, TIFTON, or any of the "immortal ten" will cling to their supposed control of appointments. Congress don't mean this kind of reform. It is willing to "reform" the President, heads of Departments, and all and singular—hands from them! It is well known that SUMNER's hostility to the President had its origin in this very evil. He wished to absolutely control the appointment of a Minister to England, and did for a time. When this prerogative was taken away he became an enemy. SCHURZ is partially censurable in the same direction. So of other Senators.

WHO IS HIT?

The papers which are unfriendly to the "Administration Senators" claim that the President's Message accompanying the report of the Civil Service Commission is a rebuke of the President's friends in the Senate. Certainly, the latter bear it very well and gracefully. It does not wound them at all. But the "lame ducks" appear to be on the other side of the fence.

"THE PHARISEES OF THE SENATE."

Yonkers Statesman.

Senators SCHURZ, TRUMBULL and others are making a handle of civil service reform. Judge TRUMBULL has ached for many years because the people have not been able to perceive that he was himself the proper man for President. He was slow to see the preference of LINCOLN, and was himself a Johnson man. Mr. SUMNER has also the same Presidential distemper. Mr. SCHURZ is restless; his vanity has been wounded by the President, and wounded vanity never heals. We do not say in this connection that Mr. SUMNER is a vain man.

A MASTER STROKE.

Portland (Me.) Press.

The very grace wonting coup d'état by which Mr. GLADSTONE abolished the purchase system in the British Army by royal warrant, while a parliamentary measure to effect the same purpose was being shelved by the House of Lords, has been paralleled by the action of President GRANT in promptly adopting and putting in operation a practicable scheme of civil service reform while the members of Congress were busily engaged in discussing a similar policy over the preliminaries of a like measure. It is one of the most brilliant pieces of strategy which the man who conquered LEE, and afterward conquered himself by generously yielding to the will of the people in the San Domingo business ever conceived.

THE ONE-TERM DOCTRINE.

The one-term argument rests exclusively upon the idea that any man elected to the Presidency will become a scoundrel during his four years of office, for the sake of a reelection. It is a malversation of the prayer: "Deliver us from temptation." It would make a President a St. Simon Stylites sitting perilously upon a pillar and teaching a dark open vil pass into with certain blank and indefinite hopes of a reward in heaven. We prefer a President who desires a second term and will work forward with that healthy ambition. We prefer most of all that the people should judge the matter, and that Mr. GRANT's principle of universal suffrage and general amnesty should be extended to Presidents of the United States. Let them be eligible for office, and let the people sit in judgment.

HE GIVES TWICE WHO GIVES QUICKLY.

Waterbury (Conn.) Daily American.

Now had the President been desirous of dodging the issue, all this was necessary was to place the matter over to Congress, which was, indeed, whatever body expected. A word or two to his friends in Congress would then have been sufficient to stave off any decided action. But what does he do? Having accepted these rules and regulations for his own conduct of the civil service, he announces that they will be put into operation, and merely asks Congress to provide for arrange for the expense, and to provide for the permanency of the new system, which is now contingent on the Presidential will simply.

THE TALKERS AND THE WORKERS.

Chicago Post.

Thus, noiselessly and without pretension, while SUMNER and SCHURZ have been orating for the public ear, President GRANT has voluntarily instituted radical civil service reform without any mandatory law. He has done what, we venture to say, no President who has ever occupied the White House would have voluntarily undertaken, adopted a code of restrictions which has put it out of his power to make use of the vast patronage at his disposal for any political or corrupt purpose whatever.

THE PRACTICAL REFORMER.

To President GRANT belongs the credit of inaugurating the first practical movement in the direction of actual reform in the civil service.

IMPARTIAL JUSTICE.

Norwich (Conn.) Bulletin.

It ought to be possible, while opposing GRANT's nomination, to give him credit for what he has done in this as in other respects. Civil service reform cannot be accomplished by the Executive unsupported by Congress and the people. While it has been considerably agitated of late, there has been no evidence that the leaders of either political party, as a whole, have favored, or that the mass of voters would sustain it. President GRANT has proceeded in a reasonable and safe policy. He recommended the subject to Congress; a Commission was authorized by that body and appointed by the President; the Commission has studied out the details of a practical reform, and reported them; the President has adopted their recommendations and promised to put them in force. He now calls upon Congress and the country to sustain him.

BE CANDID.

Cambridge (N. Y.) County Post.

On the test vote, ten Senators of the Republican faith put themselves on the record as uncompromisingly hostile to GRANT's renomination, among whom was Senator FENTON, of this State. While the action of these men is legitimate, it is still a matter of regret. The fault with them is, not that they are opposed to the renomination of the President, for this is at all times their right, and, under certain circumstances, their duty—but that, while claiming to be friends, they endeavor to unite him to his death. If GRANT has done wrong to the State that should destroy the confidence of the public, let these Senators make them known, not in a secret committee at Washington, but to the country at large. If Senators SUMNER, WILSON, TRUMBULL or FENTON think that by publishing Gen. GRANT's errors to be a serious mistake, let them say so at once, but say it boldly, and not endeavor to "run with the hare and hold with the hounds."

A COURAGEOUS REFORM.

Utica Morning Herald.

No doubt can exist that the popular sentiment has called for this action. It may subject the President to misrepresentation, for that is now the business of his enemies. Surely only the highest courage and self-abnegation could have prompted it. It is a new method, affecting the interests of many men, adopted by the President, secondary to law, on his own responsibility. As a new measure, it will involve at the beginning some awkwardness and friction. At best, it cannot bring the millennium. Public officials cannot be better than the human materials of which they are made. In the height of the coming Presidential contest, adverse criticism will be a matter of course. The President, however, faces all the enhanced circumstances, and casts all his influence on the side of reform.

A PLAIN DEVELOPED TALE.

Concord (N. H.) Independent Statesman.

The President's message, transmitting the report of the Civil Service Reform Commissioners, will be read with interest and satisfaction by the great majority of the American people. The message indulges in no ornament, and no display. It is a plain, unequivocal indorsement of the results to which the Commissioners have arrived, and an earnest appeal to Congress for the means and authority to carry out their recommendations. Let every friend of reform strengthen the hands of the President, and success in it will live in not the least accomplishment.

MR. FARNSWORTH'S COMMUNICATION.

Lansing (Mich.) State Republican.

Wherever official dishonesty is found, let it be exposed, and the place filled by better men. No one is more heartily in favor of civil service reform than President GRANT is. He advocated it one year ago, he advocates it in his recent message.

THE CIVIL SERVICE AND REMUNERATION.

New-Haven Palladium.

It is absurd to charge that if the sentiment of the voters who make up the Republican Party is opposed to the renomination of Gen. GRANT, the office-holders can compel the Convention to place him at the head of the ticket. But whatever may be the influence which a President can exert in politics through the present system of appointment to office, the civil service reform about to be adopted will make it void. As a matter of fact we believe it can be proved that office-holders under our present system exert much more influence in Congressional and Senatorial elections than they do in Presidential, and that almost every argument against allowing a President to be re-elected will apply with much stronger force against allowing a Congressman or Senator a second term.

REPUTED BLUNDERS.

There is, perhaps, not one person in a dozen who reads the papers who has not read that GRANT has been growing rich out of his office; that he is suspected of taking bribes; that he is a gift taker, that he appoints his relatives to office and those who have given him large presents, and so on indefinitely. The New-York Times recently took up these charges and showed them to be an explanation, that should put to shame, if they be susceptible of shame, those who originated them. Of the hundreds of Democratic papers and orators that have given currency to these lies, it is safe to say that not one will ever retract or correct them. How noble is such political warfare!

THE PRESIDENT'S TRUE FRIENDS.

When you find a man howling about GRANT and complaining that he shows a lack of appreciation of public men, it is safe to inquire what office that man wanted which he did not get. GRANT's friends are found among the honest yeomanry, the masses of the people who care nothing about the disappointments of unworthy men, and who, with the unselfish classes of the country, and the patriotic citizens of every kind and degree. His enemies are discovered chiefly among the many who made a grab for the spoils and were found unworthy. Those are they who find a lack of wisdom in the Administration, who have doleful forebodings of the future, and who fear the corrupting influence of the appointing power, if GRANT shall be renominated.

THE PRESIDENT STILL AHEAD.

The President is a little ahead yet. While Mr. TRUMBULL and other would-be Presidents were making windy speeches, and talking about civil service reform, Gen. GRANT went at the matter with his usual directness, and, lo! the thing is actually done. All the material improvements contemplated by Mr. TRUMBULL's resolution are practically accomplished in the regulations adopted by the Civil Service Commissioners appointed by the President, whose action the President approved and commended in a special message.

THE ASSINIBOINE ON THE WARPATH.

The Uniontown (Conn.) Standard.

As the present is the season of Congress immediately preceding a Presidential election, it will be the focal point, at which the unscaled arms wrath of scrubwoods will be exploded, and the long ropes which the famishing candidates for President, Cabinet appointments, foreign missions, &c., by which money may be made or stolen, have, since the last Presidential election, been laid to oust GRANT and to get into his place, are now to be brought into practical use. It is, of course, understood that the session is such case, is to be useless, so far as practical business is concerned. The speeches in the House and Senate will smooth and screen in the style of the "Pope's greater accommodation," cursing him for the future and the past, for his commissions and omissions, in standing, sitting or traveling, in all his friendships and relationships.

The Funeral of a Friend of the Poor.

A touching scene was presented yesterday in the last and little paid to a devoted laborer among the poor children of the City. Mrs. J. MACK, wife of Mr. MACK, the Assistant Secretary of the Children's Aid Society, died suddenly on Christmas night, and her funeral took place yesterday in the Harlem Congregational Church. Numbers of the poor emigrants from the German Industrial School and the East River school, to whom she had ministered so many services of kindness, gathered around the church, strewed with flowers, and sang the sweet songs which many tears which they had often sung in the Sunday meeting together. Many poor parents, bereaved by the deceased, came to pay their last tribute of affection. The house was filled with the teachers and superintendents of the Children's Aid Society, as well as other friends. Among others, were present Mr. E. B. WILLIAMS, Mr. EDWARD JONES and E. C. LEVERMORE. The exercises were conducted by the pastor of the Church, the Rev. Mr. MATTHIAS and Rev. C. L. BRACE.

An Alleged Murderer Arrested in Boston.

Mr. Alexander Cameron and Gunsmith Sampson, of Boston, Chicago and Sacramento.

The case of EMIL JUSTH against VIRGINIA M. JUSTH, involving domestic discord, was up before Judge CARDOZO, in Supreme Court Chambers, yesterday, on a motion to continue an injunction restraining the husband from interfering with the wife or her children. According to the wife's story, she married plaintiff while she was yet very young, being worth, in her own right, considerable wealth; that soon after marriage they went to Europe, and on the voyage and subsequently he ill-treated her, with a view, as she claims, to extort from her the control of her property; that subsequently, by duress, he obtained from her a written confession of criminality with others, of which she was not guilty; that finally they separated, she giving him $50,000, he surrendering all papers reflecting on her character, and leaving her the exclusive control of the children. The husband having, as alleged, violated this agreement, and annoyed her at her residence, the injunction in question was issued.

The husband now comes up in opposition to the existence of the injunction that the $50,000 given him was a part of his own money given to improve her property, and that she is about to remove the children beyond the jurisdiction of the Court.

The Court was of opinion that the affidavits against the husband were of such a character that he should have an opportunity to answer them, and for this purpose adjourned the case until the 15th of next month.

INDIAN AFFAIRS.

Report of the Board of Commissioners—Condition of the Tribes—Prospects of Peace—Progress in the Future.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—The following is an abstract of the third annual report of the Board of Indian Commissioners: The Cheyennes and Arapahoes are generally contented upon their new reservation. The schools, under care of the Friends, are gaining their confidence, and their condition has sufficiently improved during the last year to warrant the expectation of a satisfactory advancement in the future.

The condition of the Osages is most unsatisfactory. On the representations of the Committee of the Board, that the Government would protect them in the proposed new reservation in the Indian Territory, they consented last year to remove. Nevertheless, there are many trespassers on the land to which they were conveyed. In addition to this trouble, a new survey, which assumes to change the ninety-sixth parallel as heretofore located, if correct, deprives them of the greater part of the fertile land upon which they have settled, and already made valuable improvements. The continuation of the trespasses on Indian lands, in spite of the oft-repeated warning of the Government, seems to be the result of past failures to enforce the laws for the protection of the reservations. The squatters still believe that there is no real intention to interfere, and nothing but forcible ejection will undeceive them. The issue of your determination to enforce the laws and maintain the honor of the Government, by keeping its pledges to the Indians, cannot fail to be sustained by the people of the country.

The only other Indians who have caused any serious trouble are the Apaches of New-Mexico and Arizona. Attention has already been called to the situation of this tribe, their eager desire for peace, their starving condition, and the opinion of the Indian agents and army officers, that, with means to feed and clothe them, they could be kept at peace. Unable to obtain an appropriation from Congress for the purpose, the Indian Department was powerless, and the Apaches were left to obtain food and raiment as they best could—usually by stealing from the settlers or travelers on the highway. Animosity of their valleys, which they previously cultivated, were occupied by settlers, and their mountains overrun by gold prospectors, who hunted them as game. No attempt had been made by the Government, either by treaty or conference, to consider their rights or necessities, this conduct of the Apaches bright not to surprise us. At the urgent solicitation of the Board, with the approval of the Secretary of the Interior, Congress, at its last session, made an appropriation of $100,000 for the special purpose of terminating this cruelty, and this money being available on the 1st of last July, the Board, at its meeting in May, directed its Secretary to proceed to New-Mexico and Arizona, to make arrangements to bring these roving Apache Indians upon suitable reservations, and to feed, clothe, and otherwise care for them. His offers of peace were received by the Apaches with great satisfaction, several thousands of them immediately coming in upon the reservations selected for them, and latest advices show that the remainder will soon follow, if not deterred from doing so by improper influences.

The clearly defined allotment of their respective duties to the Indian agents and the military officers in this country, can hardly fail to secure harmony of action, and it is hoped that capable Christian agents may soon be appointed to represent the Department of the Interior upon the reservation. It is believed that the policy, if faithfully sustained and persisted in by the military and civil officers commanding in Arizona and New-Mexico, will be successful, as it has been elsewhere.

The attempt to defeat it by the arrest of Indians upon the reservation who have made peace, for acts alleged to have been committed in time of war, should be resisted, otherwise the act of the Government upon whose faith their surrender is made becomes one of mere treachery. From the time of the Gadsden purchase, when we came into possession of their country, until about ten years ago, the Apaches were the friends of the Americans. Much of the time since then the attempt to exterminate them has been carried on, at a cost of from $3,000,000 to $4,000,000 per annum, with no appreciable progress made in accomplishing their extermination. But the activity of the military has accomplished the result, and proper end, that of compelling in the Indians an earnest desire for peace. To pursue it war under such circumstances would be not only barbarous in the extreme, but an inexcusable waste of the funds and resources of the Government.

The condition of the partially civilized tribes on established reservations has materially improved. The condition of the Indians in Oregon and Washington is vastly better than individual statements and common rumor have led us to anticipate. Many of them are industrious, and labor on their reservations, and others, as at Grand Ronde and along Puget Sound, labor for the farmers or at the saw-mills, and receive the commendation of their employers and the agents. They have adopted the costume and are rapidly acquiring the habits of the whites.

A serious detriment to the progress of the partially civilized Indians is found in the fact that they are now brought under the domination of the law, so far as regards crimes committed against each other. The difference in the characteristics of the various tribes, together with the differences in the degree of civilization to which they have attained, seems to render it impossible to frame any general law equally applicable to all. To attempt the enforcement of civil or statute law in a tribe of Indians when the government of the peaceful relations with the Government is not deemed expedient. Nor would it be practicable, for the reason that the savages are unable yet to distinguish between such enforcement and acts of war. But when they have adopted civilized costume and civilized modes of subsistence, we owe it to them and to ourselves to teach them the majesty of civilized law, and to extend to them its protection against the law less among themselves.

Many of the partially civilized Indians are ready for the allotment of their lands in severalty, and this should be done as rapidly as possible under some regulation which would prevent the alienation of such lands for a term of years.

The frequent removal of Indians has led to a general distrust of the designs of the Government with regard to them, and the fear of such removal has deprived them of all incentive to improve their lands, or to labor more than is necessary for a merely comfortable subsistence. The members of the Board, as opportunity has offered, have endeavored to quiet their distrust and induce them to labor on the lands, by the belief that they should be protected in their rights.

The condition of the Mission Indians in Southern California demanded the serious attention of the Commissioners. In the year 1869, according to the report of the Commission, they harvested 25,000 bushels of wheat, and raised 40,000 bushels of barley, 107,175 sheep, 2,664 horses and mules, and 1,800 hogs. The choice spots from San Francisco on the north to San Diego on the south were owned and occupied by them. Thirty-eight years ago, by a Mexican law, their lands and stock, before held in common, were divided among them. Since they have been under the control of the United States these lands have been taken from them, and they are now poor. They are scattered through the Counties of Los Angeles, San Bernardino, San Diego and Santa Barbara, and number perhaps 3,000 souls. They have a good knowledge of the manual-labor occupations of the country, and possess the most of it themselves, as farmers, farm-hands, stock-raisers, &c., and are in fact in a state of vassalage to the whites, and their wonted furnish most of the domestic labor of the country. The nearest class of Indians other than the Indians one of the pay for their labor, so pay them in that which increases their dependence.

The civilized tribes in the Indian Territory have held the second session of their annual Congress, and clearly demonstrated their ability to legislate wisely for their own welfare and that of their neighboring tribes. Delegates were present from the Cherokees, Creeks, Chickasaws and Choctaws, Seminoles, Cheyennes, Arapahoes, Wichitas, and affiliated bands; and though it was the first time that several members had ever attended such a meeting, yet their conduct was good, and the proceedings attractive, orderly and harmonious. The general talent displayed at this council will compare favorably with that found in other legislative bodies.

The Oneida Indian reservation in Northern Wisconsin remains as reported last year.

Flatbow, or Yellow Smoke, alias Wa-ka-ge-ma-ga-bow, Wis., is having been for so many years under the care of the missionaries and in contact with civilized life, prefer to abandon their tribal relations altogether, and assume the duties of citizens.

The system of appointing Indian agents nominated by missionary societies commends itself to the judgment of the Board, as having effected a manifest improvement in the agencies where it is fully operative.

From March 23, 1871, to Dec. 5, 1871, the Executive Committee examined 1,156 vouchers, including cash accounts of superintendents and agents, and certified a total of $1,240,720 60, being vouchers for Indian goods, annuities, services, &c., amounting to $3,410,788 34, and cash accounts of superintendents and agents amounting to $1,239,170 28.

The same care which was taken in the purchase and inspection of the Indian annuity goods last year under the same Committee—Messrs. GEORGE H. STUART, ROBERT CAMPBELL, WILLIAM E. DODGE and JOHN Y. FARWELL—was continued this year, and, as will appear from their report, (Appendix A A,) with much advantage to the service. The confidence inspired in the minds of merchants, manufacturers, and dealers in substance, that the awards would be fairly made, largely increased the number of bids and lessened the prices.

In May nearly $500,000 worth of annuity goods were purchased "at and below the lowest [illegible] in May and June, [illegible] $1,000,000 worth of assistance goods, to the amount of $1,787,729 [illegible] were purchased at prices averaging much below what had been paid before the Board began to exercise its supervisory [illegible].

The price paid for beef on the hoof this year averaged 2.08 cents per pound, as against 4.39 cents per pound last year. The amount purchased, 27,441,709 pounds of beef, cost $714,296 35. The same amount at last year's prices would have cost $1,204,692 82, a difference of $490,396 47 in favor of the present year. While part of this difference may be fairly attributed to a decline in value, it is chiefly due to the competition induced by the reasons given above.

Increased experience in dealing with the Indians only tends to confirm the Board more and more in the wisdom of the policy of peace so uniformly advocated by the President, and supported by the liberality of Congress and the humane sympathies of the people; and the Board confidently look forward to the day when the bitterness which now attends this policy in some parts of the United States, where it is least understood, will fill a page in history as unusual and curious as that which records the old hatred against freedom and the friends of the slave.

For the uniform kindness and patience with which the President, the Secretary of the Interior, and the several committees of Congress having charge of Indian affairs, have listened to the suggestions of the Board, and the courtesy and good-will extended toward its members by all the officers of the Executive Departments, the General and all the officers of the army, with whom they have had any intercourse, the Board desire to return their most grateful acknowledgments.

Gen. Schofield's Report on Military and Indian Affairs in Arizona.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 28.—Major-Gen. SCHOFIELD's report on the present condition of military and Indian affairs in Arizona, says that a state of war with the Apaches has existed for many years, the troops have been constantly in the field, incurring extraordinary fatigue and expenses; the remoteness of the scene of hostilities from the sources of supply necessitates very large expenses for transportation, &c. The necessary result is, that whether the troops in Arizona be few or many, their cost per man must be much greater than the average of the entire army, which disproportion is still more increased by the cost of constant active operations against the Indians. During the years 1869 and 1870, a large proportion of the Apaches were gathered on temporary reservations, near certain designated military posts, but some thousands still remained at large and committed depredations whenever opportunity offered. The belief that some of these depredations were committed by Indians from those reservations was given as an excuse for setting aside the agreement of the people of Arizona, no less barbarous than those which characterize the Apaches. Those Indians on the reservations paid for a large part of the rations issued to them, by supplying hay and wood at much less cost to the Government than that paid to the contractors, to the military posts. It has been suggested that this may explain the Camp Grant massacre, in order to secure the contract for the Quartermaster's Department for the years 1870-71, rendered necessary a great reduction of expenses in Arizona. A portion of the troops were withdrawn, unnecessary posts were abandoned, expensive depots that could be dispensed with were broken up and economy practiced.

Immediately following this reduction reports of Indian outrages in Arizona were multiplied, and loud protests arose from the people of that Territory, accompanied by denunciations of the Department Commander, Gen. STONEMAN. Then followed the Camp Grant massacre, which Gen. SCHOFIELD reports in some detail. A few days later news was received from Camp Grant that some of the Apaches had broken out in open war. The vigorous measures promptly adopted by the Department Commander, Gen. UNCOX, were sufficient to deter the large majority of the Indians from engaging in war; while the efforts of the Indian Peace Commissioner and officers of the army to convince the Indians of the good faith and humane purpose of the Government seem to have been successful. It is reported that nearly all the Arizona Apaches have gone upon the reservations designated, and hopes are entertained of a lasting peace.

THE ARKANSAS TROUBLES.

Emphatic Denial by the Governor—A Sanguine Narrative of Events as Given by an Eye-Witness.

The following telegram was received on Wednesday in this City:

LITTLE ROCK, ARK., Dec. 27.

D. B. Sickels, No. 29 Broad street:

The reports about Chicot troubles are mainly false, no outrages having been committed except the lynching of the murderers of WYNN. Since that all has been under direction of civil authorities, and no disturbance.

O. A. HADLEY, Governor.

On the other hand to this we find the following private letter published in the Cincinnati Commercial, and vouched for as authentic:

LAKE VILLAGE, Chicot County, Ark., Dec. 19.

DEAR FATHER: We are having quite an exciting time here. Cold-blooded murder stalks unchecked through this county. Some two weeks since an election took place here to ascertain the voice of the people relative to an appropriation of $600,000 to two different railroads being constructed in the north-east corner of this county. The great majority of both whites and blacks were decidedly opposed to any such appropriation "in the present condition of the county; but yet the carpet-bag officials pronounced the decision in favor of the appropriation. Out of this affair, two parties, one W. E. WYNN, colored attorney, from Washington City, and J. SAUNDERS, an old resident here, got into a dispute. The affair occurred in the Chicot County Kept by one CLEMENS. Wynn handed a bowie-knife to SAUNDERS, who stabbed WYNN, and he expired in ten minutes. While the parties were skirmishing, it seems that one JASPER DUGGAN prevented WYNN from escaping out of the grocery. SAUNDERS, DUGGAN and GARNETT were immediately arrested and lodged in the jail. The Sheriff immediately summoned some forty negroes to guard the jail, which they did for two days; but on the third day some 150 negroes entered the town, drove the guards from the jail, demanded the keys from the Sheriff, and took the prisoners from the premises, and, dragging them some 200 yards distant, they were literally shot to pieces by the excited negro Atlantis. The lifeless bodies were then deposited within the jail walls, and after remaining there for two days we were allowed by the negroes the privilege of interring the remains. The negroes here are most thoroughly excited, and have taken possession of the situation.

All the whites have left town, and the negroes have everything their own way. I cannot help but think that most serious troubles will yet be the result of proceedings here. The negroes are organized in military companies, and the worst of all they are prompted and led on by white carpet-baggers—one DERRY DOWNS, who holds the position of Prosecuting Attorney of the county, and JAMES MASON, Senator (colored) from this district. Another negro official from Lagunatt, BANDOUR by name, is also at the head, stirring up thing generally. They have guards at every entrance leading into the town, but do not as yet prevent the whites from free passage to and from. The negroes completely rifled Gannett's store, and are at present disposing the supplies from in place, about one mile from town.

A detachment of thirty, headed by DOWNS and MASON, left town yesterday morning for the hills, hearing that some white men were there gathering to oppose them in their present course of affairs. My son, CLINTON, Capt. ROBINSON, Capt. SIMMS and others offered them to disguise them from their purpose. But their efforts proved of no avail. The party continued on, and had not been heard from by sundown last night. This morning I hear that drums beating for morning reveille.

The squad of twenty, if ambushed, or should any of them receive injury in their reconnoitering, will doubtless open the ball, and where it will end the Lord only knows.

The whites are, beyond question of doubt, completely cowed, without power of successful competition. In fact, the influential ones have crossed the Mississippi River to Greenville, and those that remain are not in force sufficient to check the negroes should they start the work of blood and fire. If spared, I will communicate further particulars as events develop themselves.

The body of the negro WYNN is still lying in state, in a metallic coffin, at the Court-house.

I know of no other reason for keeping the remains thus publicly exposed this length of time, than out to work up the feelings of the negroes to the highest pitch of excitement. From your son, NELSON.

A Young Englishman Frozen to Death in the Far West.

From the St. Paul (Minn.) Press, Dec. 24.

The Press a few days ago gave the particulars of the freezing to death of a man at Holy Cross, in the Red River Valley, on Sunday, the 10th inst. From a gentleman who has just arrived from that section of the country further parties there are obtained. It was stated that deceased was a Canadian, which presumption was based on the fact that he had come to St. Paul from Toronto. It seems, however, that he was an English gentleman of wealth and distinction, named MILES FLETCHER, who was formerly an officer in the Life Guards. Mr. FLETCHER was a second cousin of the Marquis of LORNE, Queen VICTORIA's new son-in-law, and was widely known and esteemed in England. He came to America in pursuit of health, and after traveling over this country and Canada he concluded to make his home in the Red River Valley, and had made up his mind to open up a large farm and build a fine residence in the vicinity of Holy Cross, on Red River, in Dakota Territory. The remains of Mr. FLETCHER will be taken to England for burial, for which purpose a metallic coffin has been ordered from St. Paul, and as soon as the preparations are completed the young widow, an such, will set alone in the wilderness of the West, thousands of miles from home and friends, will accompany the body of her husband to its last resting place in her native land.

NOTES FROM THE PEOPLE.

The Department of Docks.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

With a thorough conviction that what I am about to say will be twisted and twined from its true meaning, and made by such a master of rhetorical fence as you are, somehow to tell against me, I, nevertheless, proceed to reply to your questions regarding the appointment of Messrs. HUGH and HENRY A. SMITH to the Treasurership of the Department of Docks in succession.

I had never seen Mr. HUGH SMITH prior to my appointment as a Commissioner of the Department of Docks, but had often heard him spoken of as "honest HUGHEY SMITH," and the opinion expressed that if all the members of Tammany were like him it would be well for Tammany and better for the City of New-York.

When the Department of Docks was organized, it was, of course, necessary to have a Treasurer. Messrs. ADREW and HUNT had each a private business of his own to attend to, I was the only Republican on the Board, and, of course, its offices were not for me, even if I had been willing to attend to the details of the Treasurership. Mr. HUGH SMITH was the youngest but one of the members of the Board, and that other was already appointed acting Secretary. It was perfectly fair that the two youngest men in the Board should have most of the detail work to do, and Mr. HUGH SMITH furnished the Controller with the necessary security. While Mr. HUGH SMITH remained in the Board, not only I, but all the other members of it, found him a most efficient co-worker, and for myself, I am free to say, that I never met a more genial and kind-hearted gentleman; and I shall always look back with pleasure upon the six months in which we were associated together at the Board of Docks.

In October, 1870, Mr. HUGH SMITH, very unexpectedly to me, resigned his Commissionership of Docks, as I understood, in order that he might the better attend to the affairs of some orphan nephews and a niece left under his guardianship, and his younger brother, Mr. HENRY A. SMITH, was appointed by Mayor HALL in his place. Of course he had less experience as a man of business than his brother, but he very soon proved himself an equally efficient worker, and made himself thoroughly master of all the details of the Dock Department. He was appointed Treasurer in succession to his brother upon giving the necessary security to the Controller, being, like his brother, the youngest man but one on the Board, and further, as belonging to the dominant party in the Board and in the City. He fulfilled his duty as Treasurer faithfully, and accounts were regularly audited every month and passed by the Board.

Last July, Mr. H. A. SMITH and to leave the City on private business, expecting to be away two weeks, but was detained for nearly four. In the beginning of November last, he stated that he had some old business in the South to look after, and would be necessarily absent some two or three weeks, and requested that, as it might be inconvenient for the Board not to have some one duly authorized to sign checks, &c., a "Treasurer pro tempore" might be appointed, and the Board accordingly appointed one, against my own wishes and against my vote. Since Mr. HENRY A. SMITH left the Board, early in November, I have had no communication from him directly or indirectly, and if any one have a right to complain of his absence, I certainly have, as I am saddled with his work.

You speak about the Treasurer being intrusted with the key of the strong-box of the Department. He has only one of three keys all necessary to open the said strong-box. Every check signed by the Treasurer must be countersigned by the President and book-keeper of the Department in order to make it valid. It was at my own suggestion, as the organization of the Board, that the President's signature to every check was made a sine qua non of its validity.

Why Mr. HENRY A. SMITH's absence has been more protracted this Winter than it was last Summer I know no more than you do, and believe that the other three members of the Department are in the same blissful state of ignorance; but if he be within reach of the NEW-YORK TIMES, I should think and hope that we cannot be much longer without learning of his whereabouts.

It so happens that I never was a member of the Citizens' Association, but only a member of the Advisory Committee. That association has done excellent work in its day, and no one need be ashamed of having belonged to it, and the Association would, no doubt, have occupied your present position if it had been offered the same opportunity of getting hold of the Controller's accounts, and I have no doubt that the Citizens' Association will be found in the future doing as efficient work for the good government of this City as it has done in the past.

WILLIAM WOOD,

Gen. Grant.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

I see by the World of today reference has been made to my brother, GEORGE T. DOWNING, as opposed to the re-election of Gen. GRANT. My brother being at home in Newport, I will take the liberty through the columns of your paper to deny the statement in today's World, so far as my brother is concerned. I think every true and honest black man should vote for the re-election of GEN. GRANT.

PETER W. DOWNING.

What Was the Consideration?

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

In common with several of my neighbors, I have waited patiently for the fulfillment of your promise to show by figures what consideration, in the shape of diminished taxes, &c., was rendered to Messrs. ASTOR, ROBERTS and TAYLOR for their certificate of the correctness of Controller CONNOLLY's books and accounts. It is well known that ever since the inauguration of the present system of concealment and venality in the Tax Commission, certain wealthy men, like ASTOR and STEWART, have not paid upon their property more than two-thirds of the amount of tax, relatively, which has been exacted from citizens of humble means and position. Whether the occasional entrance of the Commissioners, about dinner-time, into the houses of these gross men has had anything to do with the amount of their taxes, I will not pretend to say. But one thing I will assert, if Messrs. ASTOR, ROBERTS and TAYLOR did not get something in return for their infamous indorsement of one of the most daring villainies of any age, they have failed to exhibit their accustomed shrewdness.

Gov. Warmoth Pays for His War-Horse.

From the New-Orleans Picayune, Dec. 24.

An old claim, arising from the war, was settled yesterday in a somewhat unusual manner. While an officer in the army, nearly ten years ago, Gov. WARMOTH was passing a farmhouse, and saw grazing in the yard a very beautiful horse. As "impressment" on such occasions was allowable in the service, he appropriated the animal to his own use, and rode it during his stay in the army. When he quit the service the horse was turned over to the Quartermaster. But the Governor says his conscience always reproached him for the act, and a year ago he caused inquiries to be set on foot which resulted in ascertaining the name of the owner of the horse and his present residence. A correspondence was commenced, the Governor frankly acknowledging that he was the culprit, and expressing a desire to pay for the animal. Several letters passed, and finally a price was agreed upon, and yesterday the Governor forwarded to Mr. FRIEDLAND a check for $200, that amount being considered an equivalent for his war charger.

BROOKLYN NEWS.

The Annexation of the County Towns.

At a meeting of a debating society, held at Bay Ridge, Long Island, on Wednesday evening, the question of annexation of the county towns was discussed. Mr. BENJAMIN C. TOWNSEND ridiculed the idea of annexation to Brooklyn. The only day the Police were wanted at Bay Ridge was on Sunday, when the scum of Brooklyn invaded their peaceful quarters. Mr. A. S. BAYNE of the Committee of Seventy-five, said it was inevitable in the future that the whole of Kings County would be included in the City of Brooklyn. So far as the Committee of Seventy-five were concerned, they would not, understanding from by legislation anything of this kind, unless the people who were most affected really desired it, and then it could not be done by them by separate and distinct legislation,

STARTLING SUICIDE.

A Bank Cashier Shot Himself in the Bank of New-York, Business Hours.

A tragedy of a somewhat startling nature occurred yesterday afternoon at about 1½ o'clock, in the Bank of New-York, corner of Wall and William streets, when RUFUS RIPLEY, aged twenty-three years, one of the clerks of the bank, shot himself through the heart, causing almost instantaneous death. It appears that Mr. RIPLEY, who was a native of New-Jersey, entered the Bank in March, 1868, and was of late employed in the note department as a book-keeper, to which he was changed in consequence of the state of his health. Of late he was subject to neuralgic pains, and since the death of his father, three weeks ago, was greatly depressed in spirits.

Immediately after the tragedy was discovered, information was sent to the Coroner's office that a Coroner was wanted, but nothing beyond this. Patrolman LINDSAY, who is detailed at the bank, refused to give the name of deceased, or to furnish any facts whatever of the affair, on the ground that he was acting in the interest of the bank, and his conduct in the matter is said to be immediately investigated by the Police Commissioners. Although unable to gain any idea of why he was wanted, Coroner HERMAN WEBER went at once to the bank, where he found the body of young RIPLEY lying in the closet on the second floor. Proceeding to the place of the affair, which by the conduct of Lindsay and also of Dr. SWAN, who had charge of all information, was hidden from inquisitive eyes, Coroner HERMAN soon found that it was simply a case of suicide which these men were anxious to keep from the knowledge of the public.

DANIEL OLNEY, one of the clerks, being called upon to act as assistant messenger, about 1 o'clock he was counting a mutilated currency in his room, when RIPLEY opened the door and said, "Hello, OLNEY!" RIPLEY then went into the closet, and some minutes afterward OLNEY heard a noise like the report of a pistol. He called the deceased by name, and receiving no answer the janitor came up and, finding the door locked, forced it open and found RIPLEY dead upon the floor, with the bullet in his heart. He had first opened his clothes and placed the muzzle of a pistol under his chin, which was burned by the powder.

Upon this testimony a verdict of death by suicide during temporary insanity was rendered, and the body was delivered to the friends to be prepared for the residence of the mother and sister of deceased, at No. 11 Osmond place, Brooklyn. The bodies are supposed to be dressed, by Mr. EDWARD L. HULSE, one of the clerks, who was a witness of the incident.

The Mauretania and Foreign Black-Sheep.

Sailing Orders—Charges against Harbor-Master Hart.

An investigation in the case of Harbor-master HART was yesterday held by Mr. James E. Jones, the Captain of the port. A number of very grave charges, vaguely discussed in the newspapers of this port, and thoroughly accepted Mr. HART with black-mailing and other illegal acts, were on the 14th December forwarded to the Governor of the State for his inspection.

On Tuesday last, Mr. JONES received orders from Gov. HOFFMAN to investigate the case. A number of prominent merchants were present during the investigation. Mr. BURDICK appeared as counsel for the merchants, and Mr. E. G. DAVIES for the defendant HART.

The specific charge under investigation was that Captain JAMES E. JONES, on or about the 6th of last month, did knowingly and wilfully allow to be conveyed to the Irish Republic, on Pier No. 4, East River, a William being requested to do so by the lessees of the premises aforesaid, and without giving the usual notice to remove said boat. The boat was moved with a warehouse-man, named GARDNER, who was a witness in the case. The warehouseman then delivered the current rates for storage, cartage, insurance, &c.

Mr. Commissioner FARRAR, of the firm of COLEMAN & CO., was called to testify to the above charges. Before he did, explaining each item in detail, he was cross-examined by Mr. DAVIES, but nothing of value to his direct testimony was elicited.

Mr. A. T. HERRY was the next witness called. He was examined and cross-examined at great length. The substance of his testimony went to show that a most outrageous system of blackmailing was carried on by the Wharfingers at the various piers, which the merchants were completely powerless to prevent. Mr. HERRY stated that a few days ago he had paid a Wharfinger named RIVER the sum of $5 for towage and berth for the bark Tarrytown when the least sum should have been only $3. In answer to the question why he paid RIVER the extra $2, he replied he had allowed him Mr. HERRY reported, "I have to do business with these men, say Wharfinger to charge one cent for a berth, but that not to be the custom in the port of New-York that you cannot get a berth for a ship in any district without having to pay extra." Many other facts were elicited showing the extent to which this blackmailing system is carried, but the witness could not swear that he ever saw or heard of the defendant HART in any part of the money thus illegally wrung from the merchants.

The investigation will be resumed this morning at 10½ A. M.

Work on Wardle Island Lunatic Asylum Stopped—Treatment of Passengers on Board the Franklin.

The Emigration Commissioners met yesterday afternoon, Hon. RICHARD O'GORMAN in the chair. The contractor for the new lunatic asylum on Ward's Island was directed to stop all further work for the Winter. The report of the Castle Garden Committee on the complaint made by the passengers of the steam-ship Franklin, against the Captain and officers of that vessel, for ill-treatment and insufficient accommodation during the passage out here, was submitted. The Committee gave it as their opinion that the sufferings of the passengers were due to insufficient ventilation and the want of a proper water-condensing apparatus. On motion of Mr. HAMILTON, the report was adopted and a copy sent to the owners of the Franklin with a request that they see that their vessels are better ventilated and supplied with a proper apparatus for condensing water. A resolution was unanimously adopted directing the Superintendent to spend a sum not more than $250 in advertising the fact in the principal Southern newspapers that there were a large number of able-bodied men in charge of the Emigration Commission who were out of employment and willing to go South to work.

The Board then went into executive session to receive the report of the Committee on Railroad Abuses.

Arrest of a Noted Sneak-Thief.

For some time past complaints have been made at Police Head-quarters of the operations of a female sneak-thief in the upper part of the City. It was her custom to gain access to houses under pretense of peddling some small articles, and to pick up anything of value which chance might offer. In this way she had stolen a large number of watches, dresses and other articles, and from a description of the person of the thief she was supposed to be one MARY WILKINS, whose portrait is in the Rogues' Gallery, and orders were sent out to arrest her wherever she might be found. She was discovered yesterday in the Seventh Precinct and taken to Police Head-quarters. Several of her victims appeared and fully identified her, among whom were Mrs. JOHN MCGAVE, of No. 45 West One Hundred and Thirtieth-street, who lost a gold watch and chain; Miss DUDLEY, of No. 4 West One Hundred and Twenty-ninth-street, who had one and a gold watch and chain stolen, and Mrs. LYON, of No. 139 West One Hundred and Eleventh-street, from whom her had stolen a gold watch, a bosque and a silk dress, all valued at $[illegible]. These were only a small part of the articles from the dependences of the prisoner, who is held at Police Head-quarters to allow time for others to come forward and make complaints against her.

Report of the Auditor of the United States District Attorney's Office—Reports of Mr. Purdy and Mr. Emmons.

A report has been made by Mr. LUTHER W. EMMONS, Assistant District-Attorney, who has charge of the Internal Revenue Bureau under United States District-Attorney DAVIS, in which the work of the present year is given as follows: Civil internal revenue suits disposed of, 320; suits still pending, 619; judgments recovered by defendants, 2; suits discontinued by the Government, or dismissed on payment of costs, 12; judgments in favor of the Government, 315; appeals from the District to the Circuit Court, 2; amount recovered on judgments and paid in, $[illegible]; total amount of judgments recovered during the year, $246,697 07; number of suits commenced, 318. The heaviest judgment recovered during the year was one for $104,000, against LILIENTHAL & Co., tobacconists, for alleged irregularities.

Assistant District-Attorney AMBROSE H. PURDY, who has charge of the Criminal Bureau of the District-Attorney's office, assisted by Col. SIDNEY DE KAY, reports that during the year there were forty-five cases tried, in all of which the defendants were convicted except three. There are 144 cases still pending, among which are those of JAMES IRVING, the drawback forgery, and the Howard match-stamp frauds.

The cases of obscene publications against COLGATE, indicted for selling counterfeit money in Leslie-street Jail, who is now confined there on a charge of selling obscene pictures, and JOSHUA D. MINER, an alleged prominent counterfeiter, Mr. HENRY DUMAS, of the District-Attorney's office, reports that of the suits brought by and against Collectors of Customs for alleged illegal exaction of duties, there were six closed. Judgments in 38 suits were given for the Government, and 30 against it, and 289 suits were discontinued. There were 247 suits commenced, and there are 2,[illegible] suits still pending.

The Clerk of the Board was authorized by leases for a period of one years and three months, the upper floors of the buildings Nos. 139, 141 and 143 West Twenty-third-street, for the use of the Seventy-ninth Regiment as an armory.

Mr. WOLFMAN explained that the former resolution called on the Controller to obtain a lease of the building in question, but he having failed to do so, the resolution had been altered so as to allow the Board of Public Charities the buildings being wanted for immediate occupation.

A communication was received from the Judges of the Marine Court, stating that they had reappointed the attendants on that Court, about twenty in number, and also six additional attendants, and asked to have the appointments confirmed.

Mr. PLUNKITT moved to refer the matter to the Committee on County Offices; but the motion was lost, and the appointments were confirmed.

The bill of expenses incurred by the Committee of Citizens in investigating the Ring frauds, amounting to $[illegible], was ordered to be paid.

The Board then adjourned to Saturday next, at noon.

Old Faces at the Custom-House.

The continued retention of officials in the civil service of the Government for their competency and honesty has long been a prominent feature in the administration of the Custom-House, notwithstanding the general impression to the contrary. Under Ex-Collector MURPHY were a considerable number of gentlemen who were kept in office because of their efficiency and thorough acquaintance with their duties, and who will continue to remain under Gen. ARTHUR, the present Collector. Gen. ARTHUR has caused to be prepared an interesting list of the old Custom-House attaches, which contains the names of many who have actually grown up in the employ of the Government. The two persons who have been the longest in office there are Messrs. W. C. DAYTON and T. V. MUMFORD, who have been Custom-house clerks since 1829. Mr. J. S. VAN BUSKIRK became Inspector in 1831, and has been on duty at the Barge office for the last forty years; he is now an old man. Mr. CHARLES T. OGDEN began as Inspector in 1839, and is now, and has been for years, Assistant Collector. Mr. S. G. OGDEN, the Auditor, was first appointed a clerk in 1841, and Deputy Collector LYDECKER started as clerk in 1834, at $[illegible] a year. Mr. THEO. L. JAMES has gradually risen from an Inspector to be Deputy Collector. The following are the names of several other old officials, and the dates of their appointment: GEO. HILLIER, Superintendent of the Custom-house, 1841; W. D. ROBINSON, Cashier; WM. HENRY FAY, clerk, and PATRICK MCCAFFREY, porter, 1832; E. C. M. EVERS, chief liquidating clerk, 1840, and JOSEPH TULLAR, Chief Clerk in Assistant Collector's office, 1832.

Deadly Assault in Mulberry-Street.

An ante-mortem statement was taken yesterday, by Coroner YORKE, in the case of JOHN KELLY, who was assaulted on Monday last. KELLY said that when opposite No. 65 Mulberry-street, with THOMAS MCKEEBRAN, he met PATRICK DEVINS and another man, who were making some noise. KELLY told them to be more quiet, when DEVINS struck him on the head and knocked him down. At this moment JAMES CLANCEY came from the hallway of No. 65, and struck him on the head with a bar of iron. KELLY catching CLANCEY by the pantaloons, the latter struck him several other blows, and the injured man was finally rescued by his sister. The jury rendered a verdict against DEVINS and CLANCEY, and warrants were issued for their arrest. KELLY is considered to be in an extremely critical condition.

THURSDAY, Dec. 28—P. M.

The rates for Money continued dear today, and while the difficulties of borrowing have not increased, it is evident that many of the best houses of the Stock Exchange are paying lenders a daily Commission and 7 ⅌ cent. Interest to carry over their Bank accounts. The fact that this is done openly by such Brokers has familiarized the Street with extra rates as an affair of ordinary business, and in turn increased the number of lenders who hold back their balances, heretofore loaned at Simple Interest, for the "consideration" of an eighth or sixteenth Commission per day, extra, as long as the harvest lasts. To speculators in the Railway and other Stocks, who are putting up the market, as it were, against wind and tide, and by force of the wealth that stands behind the movement, at the rate of 2 or 3 or 5 ⅌ cent. a week, it seems a question of indifference how dear Money is, if it will only encourage the Street to sell Stocks short with freedom, because of its principals of as Brokers, conduct their business in the ordinary course, the sharp turn in Money at the close of the Old Year, is a matter of serious inconvenience as well as loss. It is to be hoped, and by many of the Brokers, it is expected, that a different and smoother state of things will follow the advent of the New Year.

The Foreign Exchanges have stiffened a fraction on the pending settlements in the way of Dividends and Credits, for England and Continental account, at the beginning of the New-Year. One or more of the leading drawers advanced their rates on London to 109½ ⅌ cent., and the current quotation this afternoon is 109½@109¾ ⅌ cent. As Exchange is bought exclusively with Gold, and Gold is abundant at the recent decline to 108½@108¾ ⅌ cent., the market for Bills is less affected today by the prevailing stringency for money. The sales of Gold are also ¼ ⅌ cent higher, and $3,375,000 was bid for at the Treasury, of which $1,000,000 was sold as follows:

The Treasury Office disbursed $1,600,000 Gold Interest and $400,000 Currency Interest today.

On the Stock Exchange the Public Funds continued firm in price and active in demand, while the principal business done was in the offices of the prominent dealers at very full rates, especially for the 5-20s of 1867, the long 6 ⅌ cents, and the Currency 6 ⅌ cents. There were also considerable transactions in the New-5 ⅌ cent. Loan at 109¼ ⅌ cent. This price includes accrued Interest from Nov. 1. The Currency 6 ⅌ cent. (loaned to Pacific Roads) sold at 114¾ and accrued Interest since July 1. Hereafter the stock is to be dealt in at the Exchange as other Public Funds of the United States, without adding Interest to the price. The change is very acceptable to the Brokers, and the new rule will be better understood by the public. The Southern State Bonds are better by 1 ⅌ cent. on Tennessees and Virginias. South Carolinas are dull at 24@24¼ ⅌ cent. Western Telegraph Stock this Afternoon sold at a fraction above 70 ⅌ cent., the highest points for years past, the price having touched 21@22 in the mean time. The sales at 70 are said to win a number of large wagers, laid some months ago, that this point would be reached before the close of the year 1871. The transactions of the day in the Stock were quite large. The Railroads paused in prices about noon, owing to the scarcity or dearness of Money, but the dullness continued only an hour or two, and the general list looked firm again in the Afternoon. The Stock of the Erie Road fell below 32 ⅌ cent. yesterday, and sold today at 31½ ⅌ cent. A leading operator sold a large amount of "privileges" to deliver the Stock to him at 31 ⅌ cent. any time in 30 or 60 days. He receives one ⅌ cent. consideration for these "privileges," which, if availed of, would reduce the cost of the Stock to 30 ⅌ cent. The Stock subsequently sold up to 32½@32¾.

After the Boards, the following quotations were made as compared with Wednesday night. Gold sold at 108¾ ⅌ cent., and Exchange closed firm at 109½@109¾ ⅌ cent.

☞ REDEMPTION OF FIVE-TWENTIES OF 1862.

SECOND SERIES.

Further calls at the second and subsequent series of the Five-Twenties of 1862 will doubtless follow during the coming year.

The recent relative market values of called and uncalled Bonds show that HOLDERS CAN REALIZE A BETTER PRICE FOR THEIR BONDS BEFORE THEY ARE CALLED THAN AFTERWARD.

Holders of ALL FIVE-TWENTIES OF 1862, and especially of the SECOND SERIES, will therefore do well to consider the subject of reinvestment in a more permanent form without delay.

The amount of really first-class and absolutely safe six per cent. Gold Bonds, which can now be had at anything like their par, is very limited. Prominent among these are the SIX PER CENT. GOLD BONDS OF THE CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD COMPANY, which we offer and recommend, believing them to be as absolutely safe as the Bonds of the Government. Less than $2,000,000 now remain unsold, and they will be rapidly taken up. Present price, 90, and accrued interest. Inter

The New-York Times.

The utmost care will be devoted in gathering political news from special sources during the Presidential canvass. The department of the paper will be accordingly full and trustworthy. Reserved composition will be exhibited in every department of the paper, and large space will be devoted to reports of speeches made during elections, or on other important political occasions.

A very full summary of news, and many general articles of general interest, are published in the DAILY TIMES; and in the WEEKLY edition there is an unabridged report of the proceedings at the Farmers' Club, an excellent summary of political information, and a great variety of matter suitable for family reading.

The NEW-YORK TIMES is pre-eminently a family paper, all objectionable advertisements being rigidly excluded; and it has a circulation increasing envious rivals among the most respectable classes of the community.

We prepared the public on Wednesday for the melancholy tidings of the death of Mr. JAMES H. HACKETT, the eminent actor. Although his death will be deeply regretted, his surviving friends have the satisfaction of knowing that he died full of years and honor, and that he lived long enough to reap the just reward of hardly-earned fame. He has left a son—Mr. JOHN K. HACKETT—occupying a distinguished position in the City, and filling it at an unusually troubled period, when so many reputations have been wrecked, with great credit to himself and with great advantage to the community. There is nothing in which a man can more justly feel a pride than the honorable reputation of a good father, and the Recorder of the City undoubtedly does feel this pride, and has done his best to prove worthy of his father's reputation. We present elsewhere an interesting memoir of the celebrated comedian, who closed his days yesterday, consoled by the affectionate attentions of those who were near and dear to him.

That W. M. TWEED, the Master Thief, has found his native stock of impudence unequal to the emergency in which he is now placed, cannot be doubted. A City paper, which coolly appropriated the copy of the new charter we had published exclusively last Sunday, without a word of acknowledgement, makes a great fuss about its "enterprise" in announcing TWEED's flight. The truth is that TWEED has not fled—he is in this City, and the fact that he is keeping himself invisible just now was stated in these columns on Tuesday last. It is quite possible, of course, that he will yet become a fugitive—and Sheriff BRENNAN will be chiefly responsible if he does. TWEED ought ere now to have joined CONNOLLY in Ludlow-street Jail—he is by far the most guilty man of the two. But we are assured that he knows so many secrets about the way in which money was spent by the National Democratic Committee, that the leading Democrats are very anxious to see him sneak off to parts unknown. After all, TWEED has a story to tell, and it would not be a story calculated to promote the interests of the Democratic Party in the Presidential election. It is said—we merely give it as a rumor—that Mr. CHARLES O'CONOR does not look with unqualified satisfaction on the prospect of TWEED's making "a clean breast of it," for Mr. O'CONOR, while detesting fraud, is yet too good a Democrat to wish to see his party destroyed. Is it not, in the meanwhile, a pretty sight to see the office of Comptroller of the Public Works held by a thief who dares not show his face in public?

"The Great City Problem."

A pamphlet will appear in a few days, entitled, The Great City Problem; the Evil and the Remedy of New-York City Government; by Non-Partisan. Its author is an eminent member of the legal profession. His work is unquestionably the most valuable contribution to the solution of the question of municipal reform, recently made by any individual; and, if we except an able report submitted to the Union League Club in 1866, by a Committee of which Mr. D. B. EATON was Chairman, it is the most valuable contribution made at any time. It reviews, with comprehensive knowledge of the situation, the present confused, abortive, and corrupt contrivances for the management of our local affairs. The author points out in a clear manner the theories which stand in the way of removing these contrivances, and proposes to substitute for them a method that will bring into action the powers of the community for giving itself an honest and efficient administration. He traces the origin and rise of government by party majorities, the debasement and inefficiency which have resulted from it, and the necessity of absolutely breaking up the system itself. He describes with energy and skill the corrupting influences and the gross injustice of the "caucus" plan now in vogue, and then proceeds to consider the remedies. First among these he places proper registry laws. These have been hitherto framed with reference to the party system. The registry has been placed too near election, and the provisions have been framed to allow those to vote who have neglected registry to the last moment or altogether. This plan should be abandoned. The registry should be completed at least thirty days before an election, and no person who is not registered should be allowed to vote at all. The author suggests detailed provisions for detecting, preventing, and punishing fraud. Next he would place safeguards round the performance of the function of appointment by City officials. All communications on which such appointments are made must be in writing and kept on file. Any appointment based on party, religious, relationship, pecuniary considerations, or any personal favoritism whatever, or for any other reason than a regard for the efficiency and honesty of the public service, should be made a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of fifty dollars, recoverable by any tax-payer. The author would further make it a misdemeanor for any person to request or accept of a City employe, or for any such employe to make any contribution to political expenses of any kind. The author would further restore the right formerly enjoyed by citizens, to sue a City officer in the interest of the people, and for the protection of public property and rights; and he would secure the right of examination of any official before any Judge of the Supreme Court to representative tax-payers, with proper provision against malicious or unfounded procedure.

The utmost stress is laid by the pamphlet on the adoption of the principle of free voting, proposed in the Charter of the Committee of Seventy. In support of this the author makes an able argument, which cannot readily be condensed, and which we shall reproduce for our readers in a day or two. This principle the author would apply in the election of a Board of Judicial Appointment, which should name all Judges below the Supreme Court, and the legal officers of the City; to the election of a Board of Aldermen, and a more numerous Board of Councilmen; to the election of a Mayor, for which office three persons should be voted for, the one receiving the highest number of votes to be Mayor, and the others to be members of the Board of Aldermen and Councilmen respectively.

The pamphlet is marked by vigor of thought, and, in its main suggestions, by maturity of judgment and an unusual grasp of the subject. It shows, also, beyond most writing of its kind, an intimate acquaintance with the constitutional and practical limitations to the enforcement of reform theories, which, if more general, would have saved a good deal of confused and useless discussion of this vitally important matter.

Miller's Recreations.

Soon after the appointment of Mr. MILLER to the Superintendency of the Insurance Department, there was inserted in the Supply bill, pending before the Legislature of that year, the following significant clause: "And hereafter, on transfer of securities, one-fifth of one per cent. on the amount transferred to be paid by the company, making the transfer to the Superintendent of the Insurance Department." This important provision, being a distinct enactment, and having no possible reference to the legitimate purposes of a Supply bill, was quietly lobbied into the body of that bill for the year 1870, and has undoubtedly escaped general observation. That a legacy was intended for somebody by the person who framed and was instrumental in putting the clause in the Supply bill, has been amply demonstrated by subsequent events.

The life insurance companies of this State, and of foreign countries admitted to this State, are required by law to deposit securities in the Insurance Department for the protection of persons insured. These securities, now amounting to millions of dollars, are withdrawn from the Department from time to time, and other legal securities are substituted in their place. The apparently innocent clause in the Supply bill referred to is regarded by the Superintendent as applying to these trust deposits belonging to policy-holders; and on the withdrawal or exchange of Government bonds, or bonds and mortgages constituting these deposits, and held by the Superintendent as the representative of the State in trust for hundreds of thousands of persons, the one-fifth of one per cent. of the entire amount of the funds so withdrawn or transferred is still exacted—here, transfer from the corporations making the transfers. As we are advised, under existing statutes, all fees to be paid by insurance corporations to the Superintendent must be paid by that officer into the State Treasury. Such was the practical construction given to all acts prescribing the payment of fees to the Superintendent, under the administration of Hon. WILLIAM BARNES, as we learn on an examination of the reports made by that able and honest official. We understand, also, that the Superintendent is not remunerated for his services by fees, but is paid by a salary fixed at the sum of seven thousand dollars per annum.

Now the clause in the Supply bill of 1870, which names a percentage for the transfer of securities, and makes the same payable to the Superintendent, in no line, syllable or word, declares that this onerous and oppressive charge is to be an award to the Superintendent. The payment of this fee is made to this officer as the chief of a State Department, and like other insurance fees, belongs to the State, and should be paid into the State Treasury. Fees received into the Insurance Department are devoted by law to defraying the expenses incurred in the administration of the Department. Any unexpended surplus remaining in the Treasury from this source, of course, is used for the general purposes of the State. The annual appropriation and supply bills limit the amounts to be expended for the purposes of the Insurance Department, the first item named in each appropriation act, in connection with the expenditures of that Department, being the salary of the Superintendent, which is stated at a fixed sum. The amounts thus to be expended are to be drawn from the State Treasury on the warrants of the State Controller.

Superintendent MILLER has given a construction to the clause in question peculiar to himself. It differs slightly from the ordinarily strict construction given to constitutions and statutes by the political party of which he is a bright and shining light. The construction given to a statute, in this instance at least, by a model Tammany Democrat, is liberal in the extreme. It required but two or three months of tuition in the Tammany school for a pupil of quick parts to acquire something of the prestige for genius which belongs to the Boss himself. MILLER became Superintendent in the month of February, 1870, and before the month of May of the same year his extraordinary capacity produced its effect on the Supply bill. TWEED must have entertained a profound regard for an intellect, which in its official infancy made such prodigious strides in development. The most skillful actuaries in the country, with the aid of their algebraic symbols, could not have surpassed our youthful prodigy in establishing a basis for valuing the fee which might be wrung out of securities pledged to the protection of policy-holders. The immortal productions of WRIGHT, HOMANS, BARNES, SMITH, FACHLER and other eminent American actuaries vanish into thin air before the one-fifth of one per cent. valuation coined in the fertile mathematical brain of MILLER. Common minds are compelled to succumb to the devices of this latter-day saint.

There is no intimation in the usual Table or Schedule of Receipts, published in MILLER's reports, that the Superintendent has received the one-fifth of one per cent. on the transfer of securities deposited in the Insurance Department, or that the moneys collected from this source have been paid into the State Treasury by this model State officer. We assert, without the fear of contradiction, that this item, already aggregating thousands of dollars, has been faithfully collected, but that the same has not found its way into the State Treasury. It has probably gone to increase the great inheritance of GEORGE W. MILLER, or perhaps to swell the purse of some one of his lucky leeches who are sucking away at the life-blood of our insurance corporations. We furnish this item of intelligence as an illustration of that purity of the Miller administration, extolled in our advertising columns today by sundry insurance officials of this City.

The obnoxious law will be swept from the Statute-book, and GEORGE W. MILLER will be made to disgorge and refund to the State the money which he has illegally retained as his personal perquisite.

A Dock Commissioner's Apology.

Mr. School Commissioner (also Dock Commissioner) WOOD says in the letter from him which we publish this morning, that our comments on his previous letters to the TIMES have proved us "a master of rhetorical fence." Really, we must decline to accept the flattery, however grateful—and how can it fail to be grateful, coming from such a source? There has, in fact, been no "fencing," rhetorical or otherwise, about it. Neither have we "twisted and turned" his letters "from their true meaning." It required only the ordinary amount of penetration with which the average man is gifted, to see that Mr. WOOD sedulously avoided all the actual issues we made, and really had no case at all. It seems to us that it would have been better for him and his fellows of the Dock Commission, if he had restrained his letter-writing faculty altogether in this instance, or if he did use it, have done so to indite an eloquent letter of resignation of at least one of his offices—in fact, that he might better have written to the Mayor than to the TIMES.

It seems that Mr. WOOD was seduced into association with Mr. HUGH SMITH in the Dock Commission, because he "had often heard him spoken of as 'honest HUGHEY SMITH.'" By whom, Mr. WOOD? Surely it must have been among men of peculiarly Tammany ideas of honesty that such an epithet was won by this tool of TWEED's. It is hard, also, to comprehend why, because this HUGH SMITH was "the youngest but one of the members of the Board, and that other was already appointed Acting Secretary," it was "perfectly fair" that he should be made Treasurer. Is that the principle of selection of their treasurers which is customary with corporations and private individuals? We supposed that this, of all others, was the office given to the man of best approved character and largest financial experience. Certainly, it was fortunate for Tammany that the Dock Commission thought otherwise. Moreover, it is no excuse for the other members, except the "youngest," that they had "private business to attend to," and so were not ready to attend to the duties of Treasurer. They had accepted a public office of the gravest importance, and it was their duty to shirk none of its responsibilities, as they did in this case, and, as they since have done in many another. The City wishes no officials of this sort, who are so occupied with their own private affairs that they have only the refuse of time left to watch over the interests of the public, and prevent thieves and tricksters from entering and controlling their Departments. Mr. WOOD's tribute to his friend HUGH SMITH, as a "genial and kind-hearted gentleman," may be taken for what it is worth. He says he shall "always look back with pleasure upon the six months in which we (SMITH and WOOD) were associated together at the Board of Docks." Undoubtedly, if his lamented associate, in his voluntary but undoubtedly dreary exile from the City, chances to be near enough civilization to see Mr. WOOD's letter, he also will recall with tender emotions the society of a fellow public officer who so readily lent himself to carry out his designs.

According to Mr. WOOD, the election of HENRY A. SMITH, upon the transfer of "Honest HUGHEY" to other Tammany duty, was the natural corollary of his brother's translation; indeed, there was more reason for it under the Dock Commissioners' extraordinary rule, since he was even younger than his brother. The other reason for his election given by Mr. WOOD, viz., that he belonged to "the dominant party in the Board and in the City," is of about the same value as that his comparative juvenility constituted a qualification for the Treasurership. Mr. HUNT and Mr. AGNEW both belonged to the "dominant party," and why was not one of them chosen? For the matter of that, Mr. WOOD himself was near enough to Tammany, and full enough of the seal of a recent convert to its policy, to obliterate any objection there might be to him on the score of Republicanism. And this brings us to say that we agree with our complimentary correspondent in the opinion that "no one need be ashamed of having belonged" to the Citizens' Association—unless, however, he used it as a vantage-ground to get office under Tammany, and left it to go into the house of the enemies of the City it was organized to protect; as did Mr. WILLIAM WOOD and the venerable NATHANIEL SANDS.

Take it for all in all, this letter of Mr. WOOD's is one of the most pitiable attempts at an apology it has ever been our fortune to read. It presumes altogether too much on the simplicity of the public, who still wait for a satisfactory answer to the questions, Why were the SMITHS, two of TWEED's pliant tools, successively elected to the Treasurership of the Dock Commission; why was opportunity given to HENRY A. SMITH to manipulate the payrolls by the Commission's expressly allowing him to refund their money through an officer he could control; and why does this man, of whose whereabouts since election even Mr. WOOD acknowledges neither he nor his colleagues know anything, still continue Treasurer of one of the most important of the City Commissions?

A Swindler of Genius.

A man of genius has just been locked up in London. His name is JOSEPH LOCKWOOD BULMER, and he is the hero of some of the most wonderful swindles ever known. So cunningly have his schemes been devised, and his agency in them concealed, that he has operated successfully for years without detection; and even now the officers of the law have had the greatest difficulty in establishing the technical responsibility requisite to convict him. In the words of an admiring contemporary, Mr. BULMER has raised imposition to the dignity of a science. Some of the shrewdest and most hard-headed men in England have been taken in by him.

BULMER was educated for a physician, and was for some time in practice. He read largely, thought deeply, and made society the object of profound study. How to extract money from people, and how to guard against possible unpleasant contingencies in carrying out the game, has been the problem of his life. To solve it, he has worked in a great measure on fixed principles. A sagacious plan to which he rigidly adhered, was that of never putting his schemes in practice within the limits of the police jurisdiction in which he resided. He thus avoided troublesome observation that might have disturbed the tranquility of his domestic hearth, and was enabled to give his active brain full play, with little fear of interruption. Surrounded by a good library, and the ablest and freshest of current periodicals, Mr. BULMER elaborated his plans, most of which were subsequently executed in places far away. He studied, especially, projects of national benevolence. He made himself acquainted with the springs and motives of public movements of every description, and had careful lists of individuals of wealth and prominence who were, or were likely to be, in sympathy with such movements. By this means he acquired large sums of money. His methods of procedure were various. One, for example, was as follows. A number of rich gentlemen in some locality at a good distance from London would first be selected as the victims. Subscriptions for various objects are constantly suggested and often recommended by the Press. Carefully choosing the object and, of course, the names of those to be interested, Mr. BULMER would send forward to their addresses an adroitly composed circular. In these documents he generally figured, under an assumed name, as an "honorary secretary," the name of some well-known person, commonly one of title, appended to the circular. After a short time BULMER would follow up his circulars in person, provided with a subscription paper. This would be headed by the (forged) signatures of distinguished people—Lord DERBY and the Bishop of Manchester were favorites for this purpose—set against considerable sums. BULMER's polished and thoroughly unexceptionable manners now came into play with fine effect. He rarely failed in getting a handsome check to add to his list; and this done he disappeared.

Another of Mr. BULMER's prosperous devices consisted in imitating genuine circulars. This he did in the case of the celebrated Jamaica Committee and others. Among the swindling projects he is known, or supposed, to have originated, was a circular, headed by the name of JOHN STUART MILL, appealing for funds in the name of the Land Tenure Reform Association; another for "the sufferers by the Todmorden Floods;" and a third for the losers "by the political evictions in Wales." Funds for the families of persons killed by colliery explosions Mr. BULMER raised in abundance, and cash for political purposes, which the donors would have good reason to hold their tongues about, largely swelled this industrious operator's store. The skill with which his plans were conceived, and the address with which they were executed, are described as little short of amazing. As the fruit of his laborious industry, BULMER accumulated a large sum of money, and it is supposed he intended to bring it and himself to America, where, in the fullness of time, he might have become the "Boss" of some city of the plain. But it was fated otherwise. There happens to be an extremely artful person—almost as artful as BULMER himself—named Capt. TORRENS, who is the Chief Constable of Salford. It chanced that on several occasions Capt. TORRENS had somehow crossed the web of BULMER's complicated designs, and albeit he got but fleeting and partial glimpses of them, was struck with admiration at the skill displayed. Such an artist as this, thought the Captain, ought surely not to remain in obscurity. Whatever his own wishes on the subject, society should not be left in ignorance of his unique accomplishments. Yet to overcome the natural coyness of a being to whom fame would so evidently be distasteful, was a task of singular difficulty. It is not strange then that, although aided by one of the best detectives in England, Capt. TORRENS has taken some time in effecting his purpose. To trace the windings and doublings of a fox like BULMER, requires a craft scarcely inferior to his own, and repeatedly were his pursuers thrown off the scent. Whether he knew they were in chase or not, does not appear; but all that he ever did was done with direct reference to such an event, and this has caused bafflings and failures without number. With the spirit of genuine huntsmen, however the officers stuck to their work, and were rewarded at last in striking their quarry. BULMER is now imprisoned, pending the investigation of a long array of charges against him, and will probably wind up his versatile career among the blooming Islands of Polynesia.

The Proposed Speaker of Assembly.

We hear that the supporters of THOMAS G. ALVORD, for Speaker of the Assembly, are boasting that they have forty-five members already pledged to vote for him in caucus, and, as the Republicans number only ninety-eight members, they only require five more to secure his nomination. This number they feel sure of getting without difficulty; and, with all the moneyed combinations, and Rings, and lobbymen in their favor, their confidence would appear to be well grounded. We still hope, however, that the State may escape so great a calamity, and the Republican Party so great a disgrace as his election would involve. The TIMES has no personal quarrel with Mr. ALVORD, but it has opposed, and still opposes his election to the Speakership, because it believes that it would be the signal for the revival in the coming Legislature of that system of jobbery, corruption, and lobby influence that has too long prevailed at Albany, and has ever found a faithful ally and friend in THOMAS G. ALVORD. It is easy to ask, as the Troy Whig does, for specific charges against Mr. ALVORD. It is a man's general record that makes his reputation as a member of the Legislature, and Mr. ALVORD's general record as an Assemblyman during the last two years has been such as to deprive him of the confidence of every unsuspected man of his own party who has been associated with him in the Legislature. This statement we make without fear of contradiction. He could not get a single vote for Speaker among the Republicans of the last two Legislatures who have borne the reputation of thoroughly honest men, and any new member who is in doubt, will do well to consult these men before voting for ALVORD. Let them also examine the report of the Senate Committee on Canal frauds, made to the Legislature of 1868, when ALVORD was President of the Canal Board—pages 644 to 648 and 694 to 632. Also the testimony given in the case of CHARLES DE GRAW's award of twenty-four thousand dollars in the same report. But, without going into the past, it ought to be sufficient, in the mind of every honest man, to see the kind and character of the influence that is now being brought to bear to make ALVORD Speaker. If he is not a corrupt legislator, how happens it that every corporation, ring, or individual that thrives on corruption at Albany, is so strenuously urging his election?

The Police Boat—Youth at the Prow and Pleasure at the Helm.

We understand that Mr. BENJAMIN FRANKLIN MANIERRE and Mr. "HANK" SMITH are busily at work endeavoring to secure sufficient support to retain them in their positions as Police Commissioners under the Reform Charter, and that they boast that they have the aid of four Republican members of the Assembly from this City. We venture to assure them that this is "love's labor lost." It will doubtless be a little hard for them at first to lose the powers and pleasures which a Police Commissioner's place gives. They cannot longer control misery officers by receiving themselves into a committee on contested seats, and settling disputes by directing their subordinates to admit to the place of meeting none but their friends. Again, if they want to indulge in moonlight or fishing excursions, they must provide their own boats, and pay for their own wines and bait, instead of, as hitherto, taking the Police boat away from its proper duty of watching river thieves. If they wish to have a grand "drunk" down the harbor, under the pretense of receiving some Ring politician on his return from spending some of his stolen money in Europe—GARVEY or WOODWARD, for instance—they, and not the tax-payers, must hereafter pay the expense. If they desire to entertain a troupe of blondes in an excursion up the North River, they will have to pay for their own steam-boat.

We have obtained some details as to the use of the Police steam-boat during the past Summer, which will doubtless interest the members of the Legislature who are expected to prolong the terms of the Police Commissioners. Early in June Mr. MANIERRE took a party of friends down the Bay, the steam-boat being absent from 8 P. M. to 11 P.M., no doubt to the great delight of the thieves. On July 25 Mr. MANIERRE, being unable to go himself, kindly gave an order on which a party of ladies and gentlemen went down the harbor on the Police boat four or five hours. Whether the permit covered the liquor which was drank we are not informed, but the party had so good a time that they went down again the next day, being gone from 9 in the morning to nearly 10 in the evening. Two days later Mr. MANIERRE and his pet, Capt. BURDGE, found that their health required a four hours' sail at the public expense. Early in August Mr. MANIERRE's health again got bad, and so he took some friends down the harbor for an afternoon's trip. On Aug. 8 the European steamer was expected, bringing to these happy shores the Lydia Thompson troupe of blondes, and Hon. JOSEPH DOWLING, but Neptune could not bear to part so soon with this precious company, and therefore held them in his embraces till the 11th. During all these three days the Police boat was down the harbor, waiting to welcome them with such choice spirits as BENJAMIN FRANKLIN MANIERRE, "HANK" SMITH, Superintendent KELSO, JOHN C. HEENAN, MORGAN JONES, "JIM" LEE, and about fifty other eminent connoisseurs of legs, liquors, wines, and Police Justices.

Judge BOSWORTH was present one of these days, looking as much out of his sphere as he is in the ranks of the Tammany Democrats, and Commissioner BAKE also lent the aid of his "ancillary" qualities. We wonder if he was reminded of the time when he was Chairman of the Railroad Committee of the Board of Aldermen, when PETER SWEENY was hurrying the Ninth-avenue Railroad grant through, and PETER's brother, JAMES—now away for his health, badly affected by the Nassau Bank accounts—got a Councilman or two drunk down the harbor to prevent them from voting the wrong way. During these three long days the Police boat was waiting for thieves—no, we mean ballet dancers and Police Justices—in the vicinity of Sandy Hook. The party had a good time, for they came or sent every day to the City for food and champagne.

Fatigued by this campaign, our efficient Commissioners rested about a week, and then Mr. MANIERRE and a party of friends took the Police boat and went to Prince's Bay on a fishing excursion. They spent the entire day there, using the small boats to row about in, and had such a good time that a week later the same party repeated the experiment on two successive days. Before that, however, Mr. Manager DUFF, of the Olympic Theatre—Judge BARNARD's friend—unable to restrain his anxiety to see a troupe who were coming from Europe consigned to him, borrowed the Police boat for a day to go down the harbor to meet them.

Finally, on Sept. 3, which was Sunday, the recollections of the pleasures of the Lydia Thompson reception became too strong for Hon. "HANK" SMITH and Hon. JOSEPH DOWLING, and they resolved on a grand excursion. Though the Police boat has a Commissioners' room, comfortably fitted with lounges and tables, to which room each Commissioner has a key, it was voted not spacious enough. With a fertility of invention, sharpened by long experience in making the public pay for their pleasures, the Police authorities sent to the United States Quarter-master, stating that they had occasion to use on that day a larger boat than their own, and proposing that he should lend them his boat—by a happy coincidence named the Henry Smith—and that he should take the Police boat for his official uses for a single day. With this arrangement perfected, Mr. President SMITH and Mr. Police Justice DOWLING took the Lydia Thompson troupe up the North River on a Sunday excursion—the Quarter-master, at some inconvenience, and supposing he had aided the Police of the City, taking their smaller boat to communicate with the forts, while the river thieves had full play.

It will, as we suggested, be hard to forego these pleasures. It will come hard on the river thieves to be deprived of their opportunities, but the tax-payers will find their bills for coal and sundries diminished, and the cause of purity and good government will be promoted, the moment the present Police Commissioners retire to private life. Their characters as Christian, self-sacrificing patriots are too well established for us to doubt that the reason why they do not see it in this light is, that they have been a little dazed by their career of power and dissipation.

MINOR TOPICS.

Some one (probably OLCOTT, the cadet-broker,) has sent us a note saying that a testimonial was yesterday presented to GEO. W. MILLER, State Superintendent of Insurance, signed by 171 leading officers of fire and life insurance companies, "fully indorsing MILLER as to his ability, the value of his public services, and his unquestioned and integrity as an officer and a man." The fact does seem to one who overlooks Schemes, A little over a year ago, Controller CONDOLLY got a similar testimonial from a number of our "leading" citizens, but he is now in jail charged with robbing the Treasury of a million dollars or more. We presume that the 171 insurance officers who signed MILLER's testimonial will have cause, in six months from now, to be as much ashamed of their act as those prominent men of 1869. When will our "leading citizens" and business men learn that their over-lavish praise of the politicians has the exposing and discouraging corrupt officials, rather than in attempting to carry unmerited favor with them by whitewashing their misdeeds?

Among the varied criticisms offered upon the draft charter of the Committee of Seventy, we have observed no objections made to the proposed abolition of the office of Comptroller. BRADLEY, with his half dozen dollars worth of sentiment, is altogether too expensive a luxury to be continued in these days of retrenchment. It will be easy enough to induce the Controller to sign the check for the State tax, without requiring one per cent. of the proceeds (some $6,000 this year) for his trouble. BRADLEY will, therefore, have leisure enough and to give undivided attention to his lottery-tickets, and to watch over the fortunes of his protégé HAGERTY—the voucher-thief. It must be remembered that although the Comptroller got a special clause inserted in the County Court Levy to enable him to appoint HAGERTY as Court-house Janitor, he unceremoniously left him out of the round list of persons employed by him. This neglect of a serviceable friend in deferred was doubtless intentional, and will be duly avenged by the last of the Chamberlains.

Alderman THEODOR FARLEY is anxious to lay aside of Tweed, so that he may back out of his obligation as bondsman. FARLEY may be afraid of the "Boss" running away, but he may be still more afraid of the facts which might come out in Court on his examination by Mr. CROAKE. For example, there may be an inquiry made as to how much he paid for that property at No. 34 Maiden-lane. The Committee of Citizens devoted some attention to this transaction, and found that it had been bought by FARLEY "at the corporation sale of real estate held in April, 1867, for the sum of $10,000, of which amount he paid ten per cent., and was allowed to enter into possession of the premises without settling the balance according to the terms of sale." The Committee have left on record their opinion "that such a transaction is anything but creditable to a man of the business wealth and position of Mr. FARLEY, or to any City officials who have permitted it." There are probably some other real estate transactions which have passed between Alderman FARLEY and the City, that it would be equally interesting to have investigated.

The telegraphic summary of the speech of the American Emperor, at the opening of the Reichsrath, gives no indication of the policy which is to be pursued in regard to the disturbed Czechs. Austria is said to be tired of the special discussions, or she will say he, but they half a dozen different nationalities are to be and to pull together, unless by some general scheme of federation, is not made apparent. Hostile relations at present existing with foreign Powers will not serve the Empire much, if on the first attempt of Russia or Germany to incorporate some of the population of Austria, the Empire should be liable to fly to pieces from sheer lack of cohesion.

Mr. BENJAMIN A. WILLIS is hardly candid in his statement of the way in which his name came to be "known to the records of Ludlow-street Jail." He says: "In 1866 I was maliciously arrested upon an affidavit of one McMICHAEL, presented ex parte in a civil action. The order was vacated on motion, by Justice SUTHERLAND, and subsequently I obtained judgment, dismissing the complaint with costs. My prosecution was complete. There is no citizen who cannot, under like circumstances, be arrested on similar application, as a matter of course." Let us see. The papers in the case referred to are on file. The affidavit of the plaintiff, upon which the order of arrest was granted, is to the effect that he employed WILLIS to collect a claim for him, that WILLIS had collected it, but refused to pay the money over to him. The receipt given by WILLIS, on collecting the money, is annexed. It is dated March 27, 1866. The affidavit is dated Oct. 26, 1866. The defendant lay in Ludlow-street some weeks after being arrested. He then made application to be released upon his own affidavit, dated Nov. 12, 1866, and that remarkable paper says, in substance, that it is true he collected his client's money and failed to pay it over, but, he says, some months after he had so collected the money, his client and he made an agreement, which was to the effect that whereas WILLIS had collected McMICHAEL's money and without any just cause had refused to pay it over, that it was agreed that WILLIS should pay fifty dollars in ten days, and seventy-five dollars in thirty days, and a copy of the accounting upon facts is annexed. On this statement WILLIS claimed that he should be discharged from arrest, though he admitted that the note given for money collected was long overdue and was still unpaid, but he claimed as a matter of law that the plaintiff by taking the note had condoned the breach of faith, and so had lost his right to arrest him, though he might have a right to sue him upon the note for the money. This was Mr. WILLIS' own statement. We presume he is right when he says that "there is no citizen who cannot under like circumstances be arrested on similar application." At least we trust he is. So far as the record shows, the action lay dormant for a couple of years, and then was dismissed for want of prosecution.

The Metropolitan Gas Company—Better Light Last Night.

People living in the Metropolitan Gas district were blessed with more light last night than they have had since the accident. The light was confined to the interior of the houses, however, except where it was given by a very few of the street lamps in some parts of the district. The people seemed to be overjoyed with the change from darkness to light, and those living on the west side of Broadway declared that it was the best light that has yet been furnished to them by the Company. Policemen complained to a TIMES reporter that there was not enough light on the street to enable them to discover the small thieves prowling around. Quite a number of them have been operating in a small way in the district since Sunday last.

Immanuel Sunday-School Anniversary.

The Immanuel Sunday-school held their fourth anniversary in the Scotch Presbyterian Church, in Fourteenth-street, last night. Three hundred and thirty children were in attendance, and the church was completely filled by friends of the institution. The exercises consisted chiefly of the singing of hymns, which were exceedingly well rendered, under the direction of the organist, Mr. A. HORTON. Short addresses were delivered by Mr. RALPH WELLS, Rev. Jas. D. WILSON and Rev. M. O. SUTPHEN. A large number of prizes were then distributed, many of them consisting of valuable engravings and books. The first prize was a handsome gold medal, awarded to Miss KATE L. BOWNE, for having brought the largest number of pupils to the school during the year.

A MODEL BOARD.

More Figures About Park Management—How the Last Board Made Both Ends Meet—The Choice of Accounts Presented to the New Commissioners.

We gave the other day some specimens of the scale of expenditure maintained by SWEENY, HILTON and FIELDS during their term as acting Park Commissioners. Startling as those figures were, those which we give below will be found to afford even stronger testimony of waste as reckless as it was illegal. The Executive trio of the Park Commission clearly expected that the Ring with all its gigantic corruption and the cleverly contrived secrecy of its swindling, would outlast their time at least. They not only expended money in a way which was equally prodigal and tasteless, but they did so in utter disregard of the limits which the Legislature and the Board of Apportionment had placed upon their expenditures. SWEENY helped to contrive the Two Per Cent. act, and he was a member of the Board of Apportionment. He ought, therefore, to have been a very good judge of the special value of both; and when, as Park Commissioner, he clearly showed that he considered the Tax Levy to be a sham, and the Board which apportioned its proceeds a decoy trick, the wonder is that he should have considered it possible that the public would not shortly arrive at the same conclusion. People who could not understand why it was so exceedingly difficult for the Park laborers to procure their pay, may be enlightened by giving some attention to the following tables. The first table shows what were, legally, the unexpended balances on some twelve accounts on Nov. 28, 1871. The items are as follows:

|---|---|
| Renwick [illegible] | $136,[illegible] |
| Avenue [illegible] | 104,[illegible] |
| [illegible] | [illegible] |
| [illegible] avenue | [illegible] |
| [illegible] | [illegible] |
| Grading Eighth-avenue, from Seventy-seventh to Eighty-first-street | 15,700 |
| Tunnel | 20,218 |
| Ninth-avenue | 10,000 |
| North end of Island | 2,100 |
| Reservoir, [illegible] | 1,216 |
| Water-supply improvement | 1,000 |
| Adding west line of Park to Eighth-avenue grade | 2,100 |
| Total | $717,[illegible] |

Of course, the money raised on assessment bonds for the purposes above noted should have been employed for those purposes alone. It is equally obvious that when a certain amount was appropriated to the year's allowance for a given purpose, that amount should not have been exceeded. When, for example, the Board of Apportionment set aside $126,000 for the maintenance of the Central Park for the year 1871, it was understood that the Commissioners could not legally expend any more for this purpose. In point of fact, they exceeded during the first ten months of the year the sum of $206,438 on Central Park maintenance. That is to say, the Park Commissioners were limited by law to an expenditure of $12,600 a month under this head, while they actually spent at the rate of $20,644 per month. The same disregard of legal requirement was shown in their expenditure on the construction account, on the lower parks and places account, and on the other accounts detailed below, against which there remains debited the following balances, which represent sums that must be replaced by the City:

| | |
|---|---|
| Central Park construction | $[illegible] |
| Parks and places construction and improvements | 151,[illegible] |
| Central Park maintenance | 112,[illegible] |
| Museum and observatory construction | 12,[illegible] |
| Museum and observatory maintenance | 10,[illegible] |
| One Hundred and Forty-fifth-street, Sixth to Seventh-avenue | 28,000 |
| Town of West Farms | 3,000 |
| Town of Yonkers | 1,[illegible] |
| McGowan's Pass Bridge | 20,000 |
| Harlem Bridge | 1,000 |
| Harlem River and E. D. Improvement | 727 |
| Morningside-avenue | 1,[illegible] |
| Arcade at base of Morningside Park | [illegible] |
| Total | $[illegible] |

A reference to the first table will show that even after employing money raised on assessment bonds for the grading of avenues and boulevards, and applying it to meet their illegal expenditure on Central Park and elsewhere, the Commissioners were still $109,852 short. This amount was raised by a loan from the Tenth National Bank, and thus the account was balanced, and the new Board presented with an empty exchequer. Both they and the tax-payers are unfortunately presented with a good deal more than that. SWEENY and HILTON left behind a formidable amount of liabilities, of which the following are the chief items:

| | |
|---|---|
| Paving for Eighth-avenue, fm. Nicholas-avenue, Manhattan-square, &c. | $[illegible] |
| Bridle-[illegible] for Boulevard, Seventh-avenue, St. Nicholas-avenue, &c. | 40,000 |
| Tools, materials and sundries | 20,000 |
| Cottages, Central Park, Washington Park, Mount Morris, and Reservoir Parks | 15,000 |
| Heating and engine-ground Lincoln monument | 2,700 |
| Granite for embankment | 4,000 |
| Paving Mullen-square | 50,000 |
| Paving Transverse-road, Central Park | 30,000 |
| Footbridge Central Park | 10,200 |
| City Hall Fountain | 12,000 |
| Foundation Fifty-ninth-street and Fifth-avenue | 5,000 |
| Unpaid bills in office | 40,000 |
| Parks-police pay-roll to Dec. 1 | 3,000 |
| Engineers' and clerks' pay-roll to Dec. 1 | 14,000 |
| Pay-roll of Superintendents and sweepers to Dec. 1 | 2,300 |
| Controller's office pay-roll to Dec. 1 | 2,400 |
| Laborers' pay-roll of Nov. 28 | 70,000 |
| Deficiencies on various accounts, as above | 27,[illegible] |
| Total | $1,080,000 |

In addition to this, the tax-payers are responsible for at least another half million of dollars incurred on contracts in process of execution for work on one or two of the avenues.

There are, it will be observed, sundry very suggestive items in the above list. Among these may be noted the $50,000 spent on laying down the cement pavement in Madison-square. This job was in the first place a perfectly unnecessary one, and would have been in the next, dear at half the money. If we mistake not, this is one of the achievements of the Shillinger Pavement Company, who are reported to have thought so little of their patent that they bought out the inventor with $300. HILTON is understood to have had special reasons for approving of the Shillinger pavement. As a large proportion of the half million of dollars spent on the Battery and City Hall Parks went into the pockets of this Company, it was evidently in favor with the late Park Commissioners.

To resume, SWEENY, HILTON and FIELDS spent between April 20, 1870, and Nov. 1, 1871, a total of six millions of dollars. They left behind them liabilities amounting to over one and a half million, and running contracts equivalent to at least an additional half million. Net result—$6,000,000 voted away in executive sessions in Mr. SWEENY's back parlor. Did SWEENY and HILTON go out a moment too soon?

Children's Aid Society.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Inclosed please find money order for $10, which you will be good enough to pass to the credit of the Children's Aid Society. If there is any kind of benevolent work which may be called peculiarly Christ-like, it is just that which Mr. BRACE and his noble corps of assistants are accomplishing in behalf of the poor, forlorn and homeless children of the New-York streets. I had no idea, until I read the list of schools and industrial schools run by this Society, as published in today's TIMES, how extensive were its ramifications. The benefactors of this institution may well feel grateful to you for bringing it into so much prominence in your columns as you have done during the past week or more. The good thus accomplished furnishes another illustration of the power of the Press in stirring up the public mind to a sense of the duty which all good citizens owe to the poor and outcast among them. God bless this and all similar charities, and give to those who labor and sacrifice themselves to alleviate the distresses of suffering humanity, the blessed satisfaction of feeling that though unremunerated now, their work will be rewarded by and by, at the hands of Him who once said: "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me." ## AFFAIRS IN WASHINGTON.

Civil Service Reform Virtually in Operation—Senator Harlan—The Cornell Testimonial—Chinese.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—There is considerable stir in the Departments at the near approach of the 1st of January, the time when the civil service regulations go into operation. There is much pressure to set appointments in the service before the 1st proximo, and several members of Congress noted for their persistency are using their best efforts to that end. Their success is small. However, so to all intents and purposes the heads of Departments assume that the regulations are already in force. An illustration of the result of the examinations now in force in the Treasury Department was shown today in the fact that a clerk, who had been desirous of promotion, on being ordered to an examination for that purpose, withdrew his application, preferring to remain where he was than risk failure on an examination.

SENATOR HARLAN.

A letter received here today from Senator HARLAN states that he has sixty-five members of the Iowa Legislature pledged to his re-election, whereas but sixty-one are required for that purpose.

BARON GEROLT.

The testimonial for Baron GEROLT, late German Minister, which has been prepared for presentation to him by a number of his friends, at a cost of $2,000, has arrived in this city, and is held on exhibition. It is a solid silver epergne, stand, of a most exquisite design and workmanship.

A QUESTION OF VERACITY.

The assertion of Senator SCHURZ, that he knew nothing about the attempt to restore the Retrenchment Committee until the resolution was offered by Mr. TRUMBULL in the Senate, does not fit well with the story of Mr. SCHURZ's private secretary. This secretary, meeting a friend a few days before the resolution was offered, answered, in reply to inquiries after his material prosperity: "Oh! I am all right; that Retrenchment Committee is going to be restored. SCHURZ expects to be Chairman, and I am to be the Clerk." The gentleman to whom this information was given naturally feels quite indignant that a newspaper correspondent should place Senator SCHURZ in so false a position.

PREPARING TO GO.

M. DE CAYCAUNY, late Russian Minister, is now busy disposing of his personal property and preparing to depart from this country. He will remain here a week or ten days and then proceed to New-York. He will not present his letter of recall in person, but leaves that for his successor to do when he arrives, which will be early in January.

Dispatch to the Associated Press.

CORRECT AGAIN.

The Committee appointed by the Secretary of the Treasury to examine the affairs of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, after a thorough investigation, lasting a week, have found everything correct. This is the second examination of this Bureau within a year, and upon both occasions not even a single sheet of blank paper was found missing or out of place, although many millions of dollars are annually printed in this Bureau.

SOUTHERN CLAIMS.

The Court of Claims will reassemble for business on the 9th of next month, with 126 cases on the docket for January, a large proportion of which were sent over from December to await the decision of the Supreme Court on the question of the constitutionality of the law known as the Drake amendment, relating to the effect of Presidential pardons on suitors in the Court of Claims. Among the first cases to be argued will be the famous Rigby cotton cases, involving between $600,000 and $700,000, the proceeds of cotton sold by agents of the Treasury Department. For this amount there are various claimants, and the contest before the Courts will give rise to much inter-pleading.

WILLIAMS COLLEGE ALUMNI.

Annual Dinner—Officers for the Ensuing Year—Addresses by Hon. R. C. Benedict, Rev. Dr. Adams, Wm. Cullen Bryant and Others.

The annual dinner of the Alumni of Williams College came off last evening at Delmonico's. The attendance was large, and included Hon. Erastus C. Benedict, in the chair, Rev. Dr. Adams, Wm. C. Bryant, D. D. Field, Rev. Dr. Durfee, H. M. Field, J. Buel, Dr. Ely, Dr. West, Gen. Washburne, Gen. Garfield, J. Bascom, Dr. Hallock, R. E. Booth, Rev. S. J. Tyng, Jr., Judge Colt and others. A number of ladies were in attendance. The officers elected for the ensuing year are Hon. ERASTUS C. BENEDICT, President; Hon. WM. E. DODGE, Vice-President, and Rev. CHARLES A. STODDARD, D. D., Secretary.

The cloth having been removed, the Chairman delivered a happy address, recalling some pleasing reminiscences regarding his connection with the College. He remembered the period of its adversity, when its public numbered in all only forty-eight, and its assets literally estimated would not reach $50,000, but now its assets were worth $200,000 and it possessed a faculty and students of which any college could be proud. (Applause.) Gradually but surely, it was encroaching in its spheres of usefulness, and while it produced such eminent children as he saw around him, it would continue to bless the community by its existence.

Rev. Dr. ADAMS responded to the toast of "Yale and other Colleges." He observed that a striking feature in the character of American colleges was their clerical precedencies. Most of the New-England colleges had for Presidents clergymen. There had been but two attempts to found infidel colleges—one in Virginia, and another by Dr. GIRARD, in Philadelphia. As the sentiment of Europe then, was an unhappy antagonism between men of science and letters and those who represent the Church. But here it was different. The clergy were regarded as the patrons and allies of liberty, of letters and of the sciences. He was glad of the influence of the clergy in our colleges, and paid Williams College a high tribute for the illustrious sons it educated for the clerical as well as for the other professions. [Applause.]

Wm. CULLEN BRYANT, in a humorous and telling speech, enunciated the doctrines of Darwinianism, and caused considerable mirth by his interpretation of the exact relations existing between man and the lower species. If this theory was true a singular revolution would take place in the conditions of all classes; poets, like himself, would be transformed into musical mosquitoes, ministers into mantes or praying insects, eternally on their knees in the attitude of devotion, and the Tweeds of our day into the jackals, wolves, and thieving animals of the forest. [Applause.] He did not believe in this doctrine, and hoped that nothing would ever occur to change the Professors at Williams to monkeys or baboons. [Laughter.]

Gov. WASHBURNE said that an institution which was already productive of so much good could not fail. Its existence was now more than ever desired to counteract the spirit of infidelity and irreligion so prevalent in our midst, and he was proud to see by its record its continued prosperity.

Addresses were also delivered by Prof. Bascom, Gen. Garfield, Rev. S. J. Tyng, jr., D. D., Field, H. M. Field, Judge Colt, Rev. Dr. Durfee, Rev. Dr. Buel, and others. The party broke up before midnight.

The Season of Opera.

The last evening performances but one of the present season of Italian opera occurs at the Academy of Music this night. "Martha" will be sung. At the matinée, tomorrow, "Mignon" will be represented.

OBITUARY.

Death of Mr. James H. Hackett.

The death of Mr. JAMES H. HACKETT, the celebrated actor, is announced. The event occurred at 4 o'clock yesterday morning, in his park house at Jamaica, Long Island, after a short illness, which his son and his best friends recognized from the first as mortal. JAMES H. HACKETT was an old man, full of years and honors. He had received from the world all that it could give of fame, fortune and friends. He leaves behind him the reputation of being the greatest actor America has produced. For years, although it was known that he had renounced the stage, and that no rivalry could have induced him to contest for histrionic honors, the character of Falstaff has been so associated with his name that no comedian on the American stage would attempt it, fearing that the audience would only judge it by comparison with HACKETT; and it will probably be years before an actor is found with sufficient courage to break the spell cast around by the magic of so great a genius. Even in the grave he will be potent on the stage, and there will be a reluctance in the public to see another in the rôle that HACKETT made his own.

Mr. HACKETT was born in New-York, at No. 72 William-street, in March, 1800, and after some years' tuition at home, he became a pupil at an academy in Jamaica, Long Island. Here he joined an amateur dramatic association of juveniles, among whom he was by no means considered the best, his efforts being continually marked by nervousness. At the age of fifteen he was entered at Columbia College. His health, however, was bad, and his attendance, at first intermittent, was finally brought to an abrupt conclusion by a severe fit of illness. When he recovered he did not return to College, but commenced the study of the law under the auspices of Gen. BOGARDUS. Even at this early age he showed that love for the great dramatists which ultimately decided his career. It is very possible that the latter pursuit gave him a distaste for the grave volumes of COKE and BLACKSTONE, for he seems to have relinquished any idea of embracing the legal profession. He became wholesale clerk to the firm of FISH & WILCOX, grocers, of Front-street, in 1818. At the age of nineteen, he married Miss CATHARINE LESOUPE, a young actress of much ability and fine vocal talent, who was performing as a soubrette at the Park Theater. After this marriage, which was in every respect a happy one, the young couple settled in Utica, where Mr. HACKETT went into business as a general merchant. He remained in Utica six prosperous years and then removed to New-York, where he took a large store on Front-street, and launched into the grocery business on a very large scale. He was, however, unfortunate. His wife then returned to the stage, and was received with the welcome due to her virtues, her talents, and her great charms, both mental and personal. After some little hesitation, Mr. HACKETT followed her on to the boards, and on the 1st of March, 1826, made his bow at the Park Theatre, acting the role of Justice Woodcock, in "Love in a Village." Mrs. HACKETT played Rosetta. He was so extremely nervous that his first efforts were absolutely unsuccessful, and many of his friends begged him not to reappear, and, indeed, offered to assist him with money to make a fresh start in business. But he rejected all their offers. There was something tugging inside his breast which forced him to the footlights, and a just self-confidence told him that sooner or later success was inevitable. Nine days later, Mr. HACKETT again appeared before the public on the occasion of his wife's benefit. The house was crowded. He played on this night Sylvester Daggerwood, and between the acts gave imitations of MATHEWS, KEAN, HILTON and BARNES. He had a tremendous success. The thin veil of incognito that had masked his genius was now withdrawn, and he stood before the world a consummate artist. It was not long before he made another hit. His imitation of BARNES had been so perfect that the idea struck the manager that HACKETT would make a great hit as Dromio, in "The Comedy of Errors," BARNES playing the other Dromio. It was a happy thought. HACKETT so perfectly mimicked BARNES, both in voice, walk and gesture, that the audience was completely mystified, and, like Paddy with the pigs, did not know "t'other from which." This decided Mr. HACKETT's career definitely. He played to the end of the season, and then left for England.

He appeared in London at Covent Garden as Doggerwood, and gave imitations of KEAN and MACREADY, which tickled the stolid Englishmen amazingly. His imitations of KEAN in particular were so excellent, that the applauding public made him give whole scenes in mimicry of that great little man, whose peculiarities were very salient. HACKETT's season was a great success, and he commenced to pay off his liabilities, nor did he cease until he had paid off the whole sum with interest—an instance of scrupulous honesty which redounds as much to his credit as a man, as his performance of Falstaff did to his reputation as an actor. On his return to New-York, he became interested in the Chatham-street Theatre, and distinguished himself by his excellent impersonations of Yankees and Frenchmen. His Monsieur Mallet and his Solomon Swap have been frequently commented upon with admiration as perfect pieces of character acting. He played also Rip Van Winkle in a most masterly way, with a setting, however, less suitable for the stage than the one given by DION BOUCICAULT. He left the Chatham and took an interest in the Bowery, but did not find it a very profitable speculation; and in 1852 he went back to England, where he played at Covent Garden, Drury-lane and the Haymarket, concluding his engagement by playing Falstaff. The extraordinary merit of this performance was at once realized, and he was invited by the Queen with her entire household, as the only actor who had ever given a thoroughly good rendering of the immortal fat knight. The conception is confessedly the most difficult of SHAKESPEARE'S creations. In the hands of an interior performer it becomes incoherent and contradictory. With HACKETT, in some inscrutable manner, it became invested with a new life, new color and new power. To read it in the closet was one thing; to hear HACKETT perform it was another.

Under the influence of his genius it became transformed like some subtle vessels of Venetian fabric, half of whose patterns only become visible when certain wines are poured into them. HACKETT had special advantages for the part. He was essentially a gentleman of scholarly tastes and much erudition. He had wonderful powers of mimicry, and a delivery naturally perfect. As Falstaff, there was an intonation in his voice which positively startled people in its revelations of bottles and healths five fathoms deep. When he handled repartees with the Prince, it went through every phase of sound, from reckless jollity to the most cloaking entreaty. Nor was the humor dull, though it was much. Many men have attempted the character of Falstaff, but none ever appeared to be truly corpulent. They only looked padded. HACKETT made a special study of fat men, and gave on the stage their waddling gait so perfectly that few men could be brought to believe that he owed his portly appearance to quilted garments and folds of padding. One of the great surprises that awaited gentlemen who sought an introduction to the great actor was to find him so small a man; in some this was so keen that they recorded their sentiments on the subject in the columns of the Press. He, therefore, left behind the parts in which he spoke it.

But above and beyond these gifts, had the rarest comprehension of a subtle character that has ever been given to an actor. He had the power of seizing on the invisible essence of a conception and clothing it with such vitality that he made his audience sense upon it feel. The idea of Falstaff before he came was a rude, imperfect, and unjust one. HACKETT comprehended that poor Jack Falstaff had once been a brave gentleman, who had fallen into bad courses, and was half tolerated for his witty humor and his unctuous jests. He was a butt, also, that would not only be witty himself but was content to furnish food for the wit of others. Yet, despite this, there was something of the man in the old knight's heart, something that being struck would give forth a final spark of fire. To see HACKETT vaporing before the Prince, recounting his exploits against the men in buckram, and the mishaps of the knaves in Kendal green, was a revelation. As he showed himself bore himself, and how he held his point, "Thou knowst my old guard, Hal," there was a sparkle in the eye, and a briskness of demeanor, that told of nobler days. But straight the eye grew cold again, and glistened with a cunning leer as the fat man mishaps circumvent the Prince Hal for his exposition. The performance was a novelation. HACKETT made of Falstaff a man whom none could approve, yet with whom none could forbear to sympathize, and who was so witty, so unctuous, so humorous that all must needs laugh at him or with him. HACKETT translated him. He brought about the same revolution in the public idea of the part that KEAN had done with Shylock, and it will be indissolubly connected with his name.

When he retired to America he relinquished the stage for a time, but was universally recognized as a Shakespearean authority. In 1840 he engaged to play Dramatic readings with John Quincy ADAMS respecting the character of Hamlet, which established his critical acumen. In 1840 he returned to England, and played Falstaff at Drury-lane with the greatest possible success. Returning to this country, he essayed tragedy, and played King Lear at the Park Theatre, and also at Boston and Philadelphia, winning the encomiums of the judicious, though the people asked for fat Jack. Two years afterward he played Hamlet at the Park Theatre with undeniable success, and was emboldened to try the rôle of Richard. In 1846 he lost his wife, and his engagements on the stage became fitful after the bereavement. In the Winter of that year he again visited England, playing Falstaff and Rip Van Winkle at Covent Garden. He also appeared at the Haymarket, and played Monsieur Mallet for the amusement of Prince ALBERT, who was so highly delighted by the performance that Mr. HACKETT was invited to Windsor Castle. The Howard Athenæum in Boston was now built for him, and he managed it successfully until he became lessee of the Astor-place Opera-house. He engaged MACREADY in May, 1849, and the riot which ensued, so disgusted him that he threw up his lease. In fall he returned again to England, and played Falstaff in the "Merry Wives of Windsor" at the Haymarket, the piece having a great run. His latest management was in 1855, when he engaged MARIO, GRISI, and a full operatic troupe. The season was not a paying one, but Mr. HACKETT generously gave several benefit nights to the poor of New-York, who were suffering terribly. From this year he appeared only occasionally before the public, but he contributed to literature a volume published by CARLTON some years ago on Shakespearian characters and Shakespearean actors. It is distinguished by great research, keen observation, and high powers of analysis. Of himself he wrote nothing, simply contributing a short notice which appeared some years before in the columns of WILKES' Spirit of the Times. In March, 1864, at the time that a few gentlemen resolved to present the Central Park with a bronze statue of SHAKESPEARE, Mr. HACKETT was made Chairman of the Committee of Arrangements, and it was intended to make the inauguration day an occasion of paying a just tribute to the genius, the merits, and the modesty of him who had so admirably portrayed SHAKESPEARE's most difficult, if not his highest, character. This was to have occurred last October, but unforeseen delays compelled its postponement to the ensuing April. The public have, therefore, most unfortunately, been deprived of the power to testify to the great actor their estimation of him. There is no doubt that the occasion would have been a startling testimony of his immense popularity, for while he was courted every where, both in America and in the icy sea of English aristocracy, which yet thawed for him, here in New-York he was idolized. For here, in 1800, he was born, and here were old gentlemen who remembered him when he was a storekeeper, and here were hundreds of poor people to whom he had done good by stealth, unwilling that the world should know that he was as generous as he was gifted. He belonged essentially to New-York, and the glory of his histrionic triumphs shed a reflected light upon Gotham. It is not to be wondered at, therefore, that the New-York city heart is very deep, and a thrill of sadness will go through the City when the news is told that JAMES HACKETT has ceased to be.

A FIRST-CLASS NEW-YORK SECURITY AT A LOW PRICE.

The undersigned offer for sale the FIRST MORTGAGE SEVEN PER CENT. GOLD BONDS of the Syracuse and Chenango Valley Railroad, at 90 and accrued interest.

This road runs from the City of Syracuse to Smith's Valley, where it unites with the New-York Midland Railroad, thus connecting that city by a direct line of road with the Metropolis.

Its length is forty-two miles, its COST ABOUT $60,000 PER MILE, and it is MORTGAGED FOR LESS THAN $12,000 PER MILE; the balance of the funds required for its construction having been raised by subscription to the capital stock.

The road approaches completion. It traverses a populous and fertile district of the State, which insures it a paying business, and it is under the control of gentlemen of high character and ability. Its bonds possess all the requisites of an inviting investment. They are amply secured by a mortgage for LESS THAN ONE-THIRD THE VALUE OF THE PROPERTY. They pay SEVEN PER CENT. GOLD INTEREST, and are offered five per cent. below par. The undersigned confidently recommend them to all classes of investors.

GEORGE OPDYKE & CO., No. 25 Nassau-st.

The entire issue of these bonds is $600,000, in coupon bonds of $1,000 each, bearing date Aug. 1, 1871, and maturing in twenty years. Interest, at the rate of eight per cent. per annum, is payable in New-York on the first days of February and August in each year. We are authorized to offer this loan to the public at 90 and accrued interest, with the reserved right to advance the price at any time. ### $140,000,000

U. S. 5-20 BONDS

Have been called in, and are now being paid.

Our Government is rapidly retiring the National debt by purchase and redemption, thereby assuring us that all the 5-20s will soon be taken up by purchase or in exchange for Bonds at Four and Five per Cent. interest.

Investors are looking for safe and reliable securities returning a good income to take their place.

Many holders are converting them through us into the

thereby adding 20 to 25 PER CENT. TO THEIR CAPITAL, and about 45 PER CENT. to their YEARLY INCOME.

We commend these bonds strongly, for the following reasons:

The Road, ninety-one miles in length, is already COMPLETED, and earning much more than the interest on the whole issue of bonds.

The mortgage, $1,500,000, is less than $16,500 per mile.

The road passes through a rich, populous, agricultural, manufacturing, and coal district.

It connects Peoria, and Rock Island, two of the largest and most flourishing cities in Illinois, and forms part of a trunk line from Indianapolis to St. Paul—470 miles. It also connects two navigable rivers—the Illinois and Mississippi. The bonds are authorized for the extra equipments and necessary buildings required to do the business now offered.

They are coupon bonds, $1,000 each, and can be registered if desired.

Interest, seven per cent., gold, free of tax, payable February and August.

Price, 90 and interest, in currency.

REAL ESTATE MORTGAGE BONDS

OF THE

ASSOCIATION KNOWN AS THE "Masonic Hall & Asylum Fund" OF THE STATE OF NEW-YORK.

Entire Amount of Bonds, $400,000, secured by Real Estate in the City of New-York worth $1,000,000.

The "Masonic Hall and Asylum Fund" is an association organized under special charter granted by the Legislature of the State of New-York. The funds are secured by a first and only mortgage on the valuable plot of land situated on the north-east corner of 6th-av. and West 23d-st., in the City of New-York, and the massive granite building now in process of erection on the same. The land alone cost $640,000, and the cost of both land and building will amount to $1,000,000.

The principal of the bonds is payable Sept. 15, 1891, and they bear interest at the rate of seven per cent. per annum, the coupons being payable on the 15th of March and the 15th of September in each year.

The property of the association belongs to the whole Masonic fraternity of the State, composed of more than 77,000 members, attached to the subordinate lodges.

By virtue of the act of the Legislature the five elected officers of the Masonic Fraternity of the State and their successors in office, become the Trustees of this Association, while for the purpose of this loan the Union Trust Company of the City of New-York is made the Trustee of mortgage, to hold the security for the payment of the principal and interest of the Bonds.

In addition to the rents to be derived from the building, which are estimated at $60,000 per annum net, the Fund is in the regular annual receipt of an income of about $20,000 from the subordinate lodges, making a total of $80,000, of which some $35,000 will be devoted to the payment of interest on the bonds and adequate insurance on the building, and the residue, amounting to $45,000 per annum, will be appropriated to the gradual extinguishment of the bonds.

For absolute safety, these bonds offer an inducement for the investment of trust or other funds equal to any security in the country.

THE BROKEN BANKS.

The Examination of Mr. Callender—The Central Savings Bank Suspended.

CALLENDER'S examination on a charge of accepting a bribe from the Ocean National Bank, was resumed before Commissioner Osborn yesterday. District-Attorney DAVIS was present. EDWARD D. FINNIE, book-keeper at the bank, testified that when Mr. CALLENDER made the examination on the 24 of October, he did the ledgers before him; entries made up the report on which Mr. CALLENDER's statement was based; he knew nothing of the securities on which the accounts were based; his statement being confined to the books.

Mr. JOSEPH BELL, counsel for the accused, moved for a dismissal of the complaint on the ground that no evidence had been adduced to sustain the alleged fraud. It was shown that Mr. CALLENDER had an account in the Ocean Bank for some years as a private individual, and had got accommodation; that when the bank suspended he was a creditor to the amount of $70,000, but he got that credit on what he received now was a sample security, and there was no proof of improper advances made to Mr. CALLENDER, or that he got the credit improperly. He took no collaterals which the receiver now pronounces good.

District-Attorney DAVIS said that the accused received certain moneys and accommodation with a view to the fraudulent bank statement contained items for two checks drawn upon banks where CALLENDER knew he had no funds. He also received loans from the bank on securities which might be sufficient to meet the loans in a month or more. Banks do not loan on unmarketable securities. That was not the usual way of doing business.

Mr. DAVIS thought the evidence required proof for the defense. The Commissioners adjourned until today, when he will give his decision in the matter.

The latest financial detection was the circulation of a report, yesterday, that the Central Savings Bank had suspended payment. The bank is a small one, which has been in existence only a few months. It is located at the corner of Sixth-avenue and Forty-second-street. It had $13,000 on deposit at the Ocean National Bank, which, the latter failed, has until recently been enabled to honor immediately all checks made by depositors. The aggregate amount of its deposits is not large, though it has a good many depositors. Mr. PECK, the President, is of opinion that the suspension is only temporary; that he will be able to pay all his obligations in full, and that he will probably get over its trouble after the 1st of January.

The depositors in the defunct Eighth National Bank will hold a special meeting at the Sinclair House this evening, when important facts and questions will be brought before them.

An old and well-recollected story about the victimization of the Ninth National Bank, which was given to the public a long time ago, was repeated yesterday, and made to appear as a fresh occurrence.

The Italian School of the Children's Aid Society.

The Italian School of the Children's Aid Society held their Christmas festival at the Five Points House of Industry last night. This school is one of the most interesting of the many good works of the Society, and is composed of 200 children of ages varying from four to fifteen. A large number of these have been rescued from begging, and others are the itinerant young organ-grinders, peddlers, and harpists that used to infest our streets and thoroughfares. The school is under the charge of Signor A. R. Cerqua, who is assisted by an efficient corps of teachers. The education received by the children is almost purely secular, only such religious instruction being given as would in no way be objected to by professors of any creed or sect. The entire school was present last night, looking exceedingly neat and intelligent, and as a body compared favorably with any band of children to be seen among the schools of our City. Signor Dr. Luca also Italian Consul, the Baron Bonaiti, Mr. W. F. BOOTH, President of the Children's Aid Society, and a number of ladies and gentlemen who are interested in such good works were likewise present, and took an active part in the proceedings. The festival, consisting of singing in English and Italian, commenced at ½ o'clock. At intervals the singing of the children was vociferously applauded. One chorus, entitled "Roma," sung in Italian, afforded a most pleasing effect, by the sweetness of the voices and the harmony and precision with which the children rendered it. Signor DE LUCA delivered a short address in Italian, which was listened to with great attention and evident appreciation. Mr. BOOTH also addressed the young friends in a happy and earnest manner. At the conclusion of the vocal exercises, the most interesting feature in the festival was proceeded with, the distribution of the Christmas gifts and prizes. The gifts consisted of articles of warm and useful clothing, together with candy, fruit, &c., and the prizes were books, toys and numbers of similar pleasures which had adorned a large Christmas tree on the platform. The names of the girls were called over, and as each one passed out she received a new dress and a package of candy and oranges, in addition to whatever prize she had merited by her good conduct and progress. The boys were all treated in an equally generous manner, each receiving a warm woolen comforter and a new pair of boots to each lad. The mothers of most of the children were present at the rear of the chapel, and evidently took a lively interest in the proceedings. The face of the children of these poor women attending the school has enabled the Society to deal them in a most gratifying manner, the Italian women being among the poorest and most wretched of our population. The presents and awards distributed last night cost over $800, all of which money was collected by Mr. LAYMAN BAILEY from the benevolent ladies who have always been so earnest in assisting the work of the Children's Aid Society.

THE HON. SUPERINTENDENT MILLER,

Superintendent of the Insurance Department of the State of New-York:

The recent criticisms which have been publicly made upon you as Superintendent of the Insurance Department of this state, in the judgment of the subscribers, render it their duty to themselves and the Companies they respectively represent, as persons having knowledge of the facts in regard to all of your official acts with their respective Companies, that the truth of the statements upon which such criticisms are based, and to record their testimony of the manner in which the affairs of your Department have been conducted under your management.

The subscribers know of no case in which a needless examination of the affairs of any company has been instituted, or from corrupt motives, or in which unjust charges have been made for the duty performed; and they know of no reputable company which would shrink from an examination by you into its affairs.

They know that the allegation that any tax or assessment was levied by you, directly or indirectly, upon Insurance Companies for the expenses of the recent Convention of State Officers is unfounded. Such expenses were voluntarily assumed by the Companies in joint session convened, and equitably assessed by a committee from their own number appointed for that purpose.

The origin of the National Convention of Insurance Commissioners was due to your sagacity and foresight. The estimation in which the proceedings of that Convention are held, by persons whose competency to judge will not be disputed, is obtained by the following extract from the report of the Executive Committee of the Life Companies, signed by MR. W. E. WINSTON, President of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New-York; WILLIAM H. BEERS, Vice President of the New-York Life Insurance Company; HENRY M. ALEXANDER, of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States; HENRY STOKES, President of the Manhattan Life Insurance Company; HUGO WESENDONCK, President of the Germania Life Insurance Company; JACOB L. GREENE, Secretary of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company; and JOHN F. ROBERTS, President of the National States Life Insurance Company:

"So far, therefore, as the acts and the legislation of this Convention are on record, they are in harmony with the expressed views of your Department. The Life Companies represented in this Convention, after mature consideration, and after hearing the views not only of the members of the Convention, but of others who were called in to give the benefit of their opinions upon the various subjects set forth in your call for the Convention.

"That this Convention has been the most important single event in the history of insurance; does not admit of a doubt by those who were in the Convention; nor do they doubt that all the benefits anticipated from it will be realized, many fold to the Life Insurance interests throughout the country.

"We expect better State laws, from time to time, to give effect to the wise suggestions of the National Convention, and believe that the insurance interests are their best and well disciplined guard against assaults from every quarter.

"These interests are too grand for their proportions and too precious in their character to be committed to any management without proper State oversight and a method for its exercise, so as to prevent the majorities in the Legislature or of designing and unscrupulous men outside of it.

"Hitherto the insurance Companies have abstained from any organized effort for their own protection, and it is hoped that the necessity for such action will not arise in the future; but the history of attempted assertions and adverse legislation in the past few years, and the vigilance and watchfulness required to protect the interests committed to their custody by all proper means, tells what disaster after the threatened assault may come.

"As some of the interests referred to were made upon your action in assembling, with the appointment of receivers, officers of Companies which suspended in consequence of their losses at Chicago, unite in this petition.

"Confident that the thousands of our fellow-citizens who hold the stocks or the policies we represent, will rely upon our hearty testimony to your ability and of the value of your public services, rather than upon the false and perverted sentiments and insinuations of those not so well informed, we subscribe ourselves,

Very respectfully,

INSURANCE DEPARTMENT, ALBANY, Dec. 28, 1871.

GEO. W. SAVAGE, President New-York Board of Underwriters and the International Insurance Company; F. S. WINSTON, President Mutual Life Insurance Company; HENRY A. GARLEY, President National Board of Fire Underwriters and Vice-President Home Insurance Company; GEO. T. HOPE, President Continental Insurance Company; CHAS. G. MARTIN, President Home Insurance Company; and One Hundred and Sixty-six Officers of other New-York Life and Fire Insurance Companies.

GENTLEMEN: I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of the 9th instant, and to return to you my thanks for the renewed expression of your confidence in my intentions and the rectitude of my intentions, and of having earnestly endeavored to fidelity and honorably to discharge all my duties as a public officer, this testimonial, coming from so large a number of those with whom I have had official relations, regardless of political differences, and who are the best qualified to judge of my motives and acts, is especially gratifying. Your candid and intelligent appreciation, is the best refutation of all the false and unmerited imputations of my enemies. Assuring you and the public that I shall continue to the best of my humble abilities to administer the affairs of the Insurance Department so as to afford the greatest possible protection to the public with the least possible annoyance to the companies consistent with that end, I have the honor to subscribe myself

Your obedient servant,

GEO. W. MILLER.

THE STANDARD OF SILVER!

In England and France it is made obligatory upon Gold and Silver Smiths to have their various manufactures stamped with the fineness of the metal. But in this country there is no such law, and there may be serious frauds committed by unprincipled manufacturers. Whilst in the article of Gold Jewelry there are such frauds committed, yet there is no first-class Silversmith who will place his Trade-mark upon metal alloyed below our American coin. In the United States the standard of our coin is 900 parts silver and 100 parts copper, taking 1000 parts as pure. In England there are 925 parts silver and 75 parts copper. So that their coin is 25-1000 finer than ours. The Gorham Manufacturing Company have adopted the English standard for their wares. Every article stamped with their Trade-mark, (which is a Lion, an Anchor, and the letter G,) is absolutely guaranteed to be of the standard of 925-1000. So well is this fact now understood in the United States that whenever their Goods are offered there is not now an inquiry made as to the purity of the metal. The name carries assurance with it.

STARR & MARCUS, No. 22 John-st., (upstairs,) invite special attention to their unequaled assortment of Gorham Goods, comprising all their newest and choicest productions in Dinner, Tea and Dessert Services, as well as an endless variety of attractive Novelties for Wedding Gifts.
